MEMORIAM
Crossing the Bar

Sunset and evening star,
   And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
   When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
   Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep,
   Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
   And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
   When I embark;

For though from out our bourn of Time and Place
   The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
   When I have crossed the bar.

—Tennyson

Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.
Nearer My God to Thee

Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee!
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me;
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee.

There let the way appear,
Steps unto heaven;
All that thou sendest me,
In mercy given;
Angels to beckon me
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee.

Or if, on joyful wing
Clearing the sky,
Sun, moon, and stars forgot,
Upward I fly,
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee.

—Sarah Flower Adams
Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.—Matt. 5:4.

Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.

In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.

And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.—John 14:1-3.

I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.—John 11:25.

For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth:

And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God:

Whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold, and not another.—Job. 19:25-27.
The Dying Christian to His Soul

Vital spark of heavenly flame,
    Quit, O quit this mortal frame!
Trembling, hoping, lingering, flying,
    O the pain, the bliss of dying!
Cease, fond Nature, cease thy strife,
    And let me languish into life.

Hark! they whisper; angels say,
    Sister Spirit, come away!
What is this absorbs me quite,
    Steals my senses, shuts my sight,
Drowns my spirits, draws my breath?
    Tell me, my soul, can this be death?

The world recedes; it disappears!
    Heaven opens on my eyes; my ears
    With sounds seraphic ring!
Lend, lend your wings! I mount! I fly!
    O Grave! where is thy victory?
O Death! where is thy sting?

I have friends
   in Spirit Land,
Not shadows
   in a shadowy band,
Not others
   but themselves are they,
And still I think
   of them the same
As when the Master's summons came.
Their change,—
   the holy morning light breaking
Upon the dream-worn sleeper waking,—
Changed from twilight into day.

The Mystery

He came and took me by the hand
Up to a red rose tree,
He kept His meaning to Himself
But gave a rose to me.

I did not pray Him to lay bare
The mystery to me;
Enough the rose was Heaven to smell,
And His own face to see.

Sometime

And you shall shortly know that lengthened breath
Is not the sweetest gift God sends His friend,
And that, sometimes, the sable pall of death
Conceals the fairest boon His love can send.
If we could push afar the gates of life,
And stand within and all God's working see,
We could interpret all this doubt and strife
And for each mystery could find a key.

But not to-day. Then be content, poor heart;
God's plans, like lilies pure and white, unfold;
We must not tear the close-shut leaves apart,—
Time will reveal the chalices of gold.
"And if, through patient toil, we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loosed, may rest,
When we shall clearly see and understand,
I think that we will say, "God knew the best!"

—May Riley Smith
If I can stop one heart
from breaking,
I shall not live in vain;
If I can ease one life
the aching,
Or cool one pain,
Or help one fainting robin
Into his nest again,
I shall not live in vain.

—Emily Dickinson

So live, that, when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan,
that moves
To that mysterious realm,
where each shall take
His chamber in the silent
halls of death,
Thou go not,
like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon;
but sustain'd and sooth'd
By an unaltering trust,
approach thy grave,
Like one that draws
the drapery of his couch
About him,
and lies down to pleasant dreams.

—BAYANT
Forever

Those we love truly never die,
Though year by year the sad memorial wreath,
A ring and flowers, types of life and death,
Are laid upon their graves.

For death the pure life saves,
And life all pure is love; and love can reach
From heaven to earth, and nobler lessons teach
Than those by mortals read.

Well bless is he who has a dear one dead:
A friend he has whose face will never change—
A dear communion that will not grow strange;
The anchor of a love is death.

The blessed sweetness of a loving breath
Will reach our cheek all fresh through weary years.
For her who died long since, ah! waste not tears,
She's thine unto the end.

—John Boyle O'Reilly

"Oh, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?"

Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-flying meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.
'Tis the wink of an eye; 'tis the draught of a breath
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud;
Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

—William Knox
With Sincere Sympathy

Words are such poor things to express one's feelings at a time like this and there is so little that we can do, yet we hope our service may have helped in some small measure to bring you comfort.

We present this Memorial, hoping it will be a solace to you and yours in keeping cherished memories through the years.
