POETICAL.

Below we publish another beautiful poem from the pen of G. W. Cutter. We have read nothing in English verse equal to it in power and finish. It breathes the very soul of Poesy. Such poems as this and the "Song of Steam" are sufficient to place Mr. Cutter high in the ranks of Modern Poets.

THE PRESS.

BY G. W. CUTTER.

Soul of the world—the press, the press,
What wonders hast thou wrought;
Thou rainbow realm of mental bliss,
Thou stary sky of thought!
As dew unto the thirsty flowers—
As the blessed light of heaven;
And widely as the summer showers,
Thy silent aid is given.

Yet canst thou flame upon the earth,
Like the dread volcano's glow,
And tyrants trembled at thy birth,
As at an earthquake's throe
Hast thou not lit the darkest land,
And broke the fellest chain;
The despot's red accursed hand,
Shall never forge again.

Another sun—thy brightness rose
O'er the dark benighted world,
And on thy panic-stricken foes,
Thy lightning flashes hurled—
Dark superstition crouched where e'er
Thy thunder scathings fell,
And the murderous bigot quaked with fear,
As at the flames of hell;

And priestly craft and kingly power,
Have striven to bind thee down;
But ah, how low beneath thee cower,
The mitre and the crown.
Thy nod can lop the proudest head—
The world thy sceptre owns;
The path thou dost to glory tread,
That path is paved with thrones.

Yet art thou gentle as the breeze—
The latest breath of day;
But chainless as the mighty seas,
In thy resistless sway.
At thy command the seals were broke,
That bound the mighty deep,
And Liberty and Truth awoke,
From centuries of sleep.

When forth to every sinful shore,
That man in darkness trod,
Thy bright and speeding pinions bore
The beacon words of God.
The sage's lamp—the minstrel's lyre,
Thou brought'st o'er ocean's foam;
The stellar light of vestal fire—
The eloquence of Rome.

Then music rose in runic climes,
And the isles of barbarism sent
First heard Athenia's words sublime,
Thy words—Demosthenes!
And Plato's lore and Sapho's lay,
O'er other lands were borne,
Where late were heard the wild foray,
And the hunters winding horn.

Flag of truth! thy folds have streamed
O'er many a field of blood,
And o'er the wreck of empires gleamed,
Like the rainbow o'er the flood.
The patriot's eye still turns to thee,
And hails thee from afar,
As the wanderer of the trackless sea,
Hath hail'd his guiding star.

Torch of hope! thy blaze shall burn
O'er millions yet to be,
And flame above the funeral urn,
Of bonds and slavery.
The world already hails thy light,
As the Chaldean's of old,
When flashing o'er the clouds of night,
The star of Bethl'em roll'd.

Like the letters on the Persian wall,
But plainer to be read,
Is thy ever bright and burning scroll,
That tyrants mark with dread.
O'er sceptre, throne and diadem,
Hang thy portentious glare;
Like the sword o'er lost Jerusalem,
Suspended in the air.

While to the hearth-stone of the hall,
And to the cottage hearth,
Thou bring'st a daily festival,
Of nameless—priceless worth,
Thou lightest up the pallid cheek,
Of the deserted poor,
And to the captive, worn and weak,
Though ope'st the prison door.

Oh ever in thy banner bright,
Let truth and virtue blend;
Be ever, ever in the right—
Be ever Labor's friend.
His strong and honest arm shall be
Thy bulwark in distress;
God bless the land of liberty—
God save our country's press.

Virginia.

MESSAGE OF THE GOVERNOR OF VIRGINIA. The Legislature of Virginia met at Richmond, on monday week. Gov. McDowell sent in his message the same day. We learn from it that the entire State debt has been extinguished, the State stock bears a premium, revenues of the year are more than the expenditures; a system of education by free schools is recommended; and also a scale of internal improvements, the Compiler says, "far beyond the capacity of the State." He urges the construction of a railroad upon the unfinished line of the James river and Kanawha Company, to Point Pleasant, or to Guyandotte, to connect the James River with the Ohio, and suggests an increase of taxation to raise the necessary funds. A Convention to revise the State Constitution is likewise urged. The proceedings of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, in relation to the act of the last session, granting the right of way to the company through Virginia, are communicated to the Legislature in the message.

The Boston Courier says that money is very easy in that city. "That precious commodity, the love of which is the root of all evil, is now so much of a drug, that instead of being begged for, it is now literally going a begging in the street, itself."

APPLEBY'S THE MAN.

By the author of the "Little Pedlington Papers."

In Drury Lane Theatre there was, during many years, a man, a character, whose name was Appleby. He was messenger to the establishment, and, besides, did a variety of little odd jobs for the performers.—To describe his person would be to do an unkindness to his memory:—"De mortuis—;" and little Appleby has long been sleeping in his little grave. Yet let us endeavor, in a delicate way, to convey to you some notion of what manner of man he was, and this may be done least offensively by negatives. He was not qualified, then, for the adequate representation of Coriolanus—his stature and deportment were against it; nor for that of Lothario—his face was not in its favor; nor for Romeo—his voice did not sound "silver sweet by night"—nor, indeed, by day either; nor could he have succeeded as Harlequin, for, (not his eyebrows, but) his shins being finely arched, they would have endangered his personal comfort as often as he had to risk them in a leap through a brick wall or a dripping pan. But his voice having been, what a late noble orator might have called, his most remarkable "feature," it is necessary to say farther of it, that he possessed considerable charms for those who delight in a compound of a snuffle and a lisp.

At the time when Appleby flourished there flourished also in the same theatre with him, many persons of high distinction; amongst those were Sheridan, the finest comic dramatist that has ever existed since Congreve and Farquhar, John Kemble; a tragedian as yet unapproached, if not unapproachable; and two others to whom the same remarks will apply—Mrs. Siddons and Mrs. Jordan. Now, as Appleby frankly and honestly admitted the importance of those persons to the establishment to which they and he were attached, so was he unscrupulous in asserting his own, and for so long a period had he filled his situation, that, at last, he considered himself an integral part of the theatre, which could no more exist, and he not in it, than a watch performs its functions if one of its wheels were removed. Having said thus much, it will at once be perceived, that of Appleby's mind, the grand characteristic was vanity not a small sneaking, timid vanity, which is contemptible, but a vanity bold, boundless, and indomitable, compelling admiration. It was not of his person he was vain, his great soul was above such weakness—but of his abilities. He fancied not only that he could do every thing, but also that he could do every thing better than any body else. This he always thought, and never hesitated to say. Now as occasions for the declaration of this opinion of himself were constantly occurring, a long phrase for the purpose would have been inconvenient; it would have caused a ruinous waste of time; he compressed his sentiment, therefore, in one short, compact and most expressive sentence, consisting of only three words:—"Appleby's the man."

But in addition to his settled notion that whatever he did was right and best, he would have it believed also that he could do no wrong. He never would admit that he had made a mistake, or had fallen into negligence. To err might be human, but error was a frailty from which little Appleby always contended that he was exempt.

But mere description is insufficient to do justice—we must exhibit him in action, and make him speak for himself.

One day, just at the termination of a rehersal, Wroughton, the stage manager, received a message from Mrs. Siddons. She informed him that she was suddenly taken ill, and that unless she should recover within a few hours, it would be impossible for her to act that evening. She requested therefore, that, in case of the worst, he would be prepared for some change in the performances; but assured him that she would exert herself to the utmost to render any such change unnecessary.

What was to be done? It was too late to change the play (which was Macbeth) altogether; the manager's only resource, therefore, was to be prepared with a substitute for Mrs. Siddons. He wrote a note to Mrs. Powel, acquainting her with the circumstance, and requesting her attendance at the theatre that evening in case her services should be required.

Appleby, the messenger, was sent for, and in order to guard against any mistake, the manager was precise in his directions to him.

"Appleby," said Mr. Wroughton, "here is a note to Mrs. Powell; it is of great importance; you must not lose a moment in the delivery of it. And now, observe, if you do not find her at home, you must follow her to wherever she may be, and put the note into her own hands."

"That'll do sir—note of importance—enough said, sir—Appleby's the man." Appleby's compound of snuffle and lisp, which defies the printer, the reader must supply—if he can.

"Then go; and lose no time."

"Lose time, sir! I tell you what, Mr. Wroughton, there are some people in this theatre—and some of what I call the big wheels in the machine, too—who do lose time; but beggin' your pardon, sir, for never losing time, Appleby's the man."

"Now, sir," said the manager sharply, 'unless you go instantly with that note, I shall send somebody else with it."

"Beggin' your pardon, sir, there is nobody in this theatre can take note but little Appleby. 'Tisn't a common note, sir—any body can take a common note, sir—but you told me very distinctly that—now beggin' your pardon sir, for not allowing myself to be interrupted, you did tell me very distinctly that this is a note of great importance; and for delivering a note of great importance, Appleby's the man."

"Then go at once, and make no mistake."

"Now beggin' your pardon, sir, I never made a mistake in my life; and I tell you what, Mr. Wroughton, I'm the only man in the world that can say as much—at least in Drury Lane Theatre, and this theatre is what I call the world in mini'ture,' so that it's the same thing. Could make a mistake as well as any body else, if I tried, I dare say; but beggin' your pardon, sir, for never making a mistake, Appleby's the man."

Appleby quitted the presence, and Mr Wroughton drew up, and despatched to the printer, a notice, which in case of need, was to be posted at the door of the theatre, prior to the opening. In the days of Kembles, and Siddoneses, and Jordans, ladies and gentlemen did not presume to "condescend" to do that which was not their duty to their employers and the public to do, even though that duty might involve the performances of a second rate part of Shakespeare's;* so the notice ran simply thus:

"Owing to the sudden indisposition of Mrs. Siddons, the indulgence of the public is entreated for Mrs. Powell, who has undertaken the part of Lady Macbeth, at a very short notice."

At the period in question, the entertainments commenced at half past six, and the doors were open at half past five. Long, long before that time, however, the various entrances were besieged by crowds who were anxiously waiting to witness the sublime performance of Kemble and his sister. Mr. Wroughton had taken a hasty dinner, and at five o'clock was again at the theatre. His first question to the stage door keeper was, "Is Mrs. Siddons here?" To this the reply was in the negative.

"Then is Mrs. Powell come, or has she sent any messenger?" inquired the manager.

To this double shotted question, the reply was as before

"Then send Appleby to me instantly;" said he; and he proceeded to his room.

But Appleby was no where to be found. It was ascertained that he had left the theatre, when ordered, with the letter to Mrs. Powell, but had not since been seen. Now Appleby was the Magnus Apollo of a small circle who frequented a public house near the stage door (which was then at Drury Lane;) he was the dictator, the unquestioned and unquestionable authority in all matters theatrical. The most profound secrets of the manager's room, stories of the most private doings of the principal performers, the last night's receipts to a fraction, the plot of the forthcoming, or even of the yet unfinished play, would all be communicated by Appleby to his auditors; and as he enjoyed their implicit reliance upon the correctness of any thing he told them, however improbable or absurd it might be, so did they, when disseminating the information they had received from him, command the belief of their hearers by the unanswerable—"I had it from Appleby!" That scene of his glory was Appleby sought for, but in vain; wonderful to tell, he had not been there that day! The time for the opening was drawing near; it was necessary that something should instantly be determined upon. Mr. Wroughton himself went to Mrs. Powell's house; which was in the immediate neighbood of the theatre. He was informed by one of her servants that she believed her mistress had not received any note from him, for that only half an hour ago she had set off to visit a sick friend at Hampstead. All hope of her assistance, therefore, was at an end so that he could not issue the notice he had prepared. What should he do?

He was mightily perplexed; so he did what many people, who are quite as wise as he was, do when they find themselves in a scrape—he resolved to trust to the chapter of accidents for getting out of it.—Nevertheless, that nothing might be wanting on his part, he went to Mrs. Siddons; he made her acquainted with the difficult position in which the theatre was placed; and that lady though scarcely capable of the exertion of acting, yet undertook to play that night. The evening's performances consisted of nothing more than the tragedy of Macbeth, with Kemble and Siddons in its leading parts, and the farce of "High Life below Stairs;" yet was the house as crowded as if the classic stage of Drury had presented a cage of wild beasts for the play, and Jim Crow, the elegant and the edifying, for the afterpiece.

Before the conclusion of the play, Mrs. Powell came into the green-room, she confirmed the statement made by her servant, that she had not received Mr. Wroughton's note, and added that Appleby had not been at her house at all on that day. Shortly afterwards it was announced that Appleby had at length made his appearance. The culprit, who exhibited symptoms of having been indulging in potations of a stronger kind than water, was forthwith summoned into the manager's room.

The manager, assuming his severest look and sternest tone, thus began:—"Now, sir, what is the reason that——"

"Now, beg in' your pardon, sir, that isn't the point; ther's four hundred and eighty-six pounds in the house at first account, this blessed night, and who have you to thank for it? I tell you, sir Appleby's the man."

"None of your foolery, sirrah, but tell me why—"

'Beggin' your pardon, sir; I don't mean to say that Mrs. Siddons is to go for nothing—in all machines there are wheels—big wheels and little wheels—wheels within wheels, as I say. Sometimes the big wheel does the work, sometimes the little wheel. Mrs. Siddons is a wheel, a big wheel—Mr. Kemble is a big wheel—but Appleby is also a wheel, and—now please, beggin' your pardon, sir, don't interrupt me—I say, Appleby's a wheel, though he is but a little wheel. Now, tonight the little wheel has done it. Four hundred and eighty six pound, first account—Appleby's the man." And Appleby, with an air of importance, drew himself up to his utmost height.

Wroughton, angry as he really was, could scarcely suppress a laugh; and aware of the man's weakness, and perhaps amused by his exhibition of it, he allowed him to make out his case in his own way.

"Appleby, I gave you a note for Mrs. Powell, the fact is you lost it."

"Oh!—now I understand you, sir. You accuse me of losing the note. Beggin' your pardon, sir, I never lost a note in all my life." Here, with an air of triumph, he drew the note from his pocket, and threw it down upon the table. "Now, Mr. Wroughton, I hope you will confess your un-justice. You accuse me of losing the note, and there it is.—No, no, sir; you may think what you please, but beggin' your pardon, rely upon what I tell you—Appleby's the man."

"Why, this is making the matter worse and worse. Instead of obeying my orders, you have been passing the whole of the afternoon in some public house."

"In course I have, sir," replied Appleby, in a manner the most unconcerned. "In course; and where's the harm of it, when I had nothing else to do?"

"What! when I positively ordered you to deliver that note into Mrs. Powell's own hands!"

"In course you did; you're a perfect gentleman, Mr. Wroughton, and I don't mean to contradict you; but, beggin' your pardon, sir, there was no need to employ an Appleby for such a thing as that."

"What do you mean, sirrah?"

"I'll tell you what I mean, sir. Any man in this theatre can deliver a note when he is ordered to do so; any common messenger can do that; but for knowing when to deliver a note, beggin' your pardon, sir, Appleby's the man. Now—now—please, sir, don't interrupt me. Setting the case I had done as you ordered me, what would have been the consequence? First place, Mrs. Powell would have got the note; second place, she'd have come to the theatre, third place, you would have put up at all the doors, a notice of change; fourth place, more than eight-eighths of the people would have gone away—taken their money to the Garden, perhaps;* fifth place, you'd have had seventy pound in the house. Now, sir, owing to my not delivering that note, there's four-eighty-six, first account, and who have you to thank for it? Beggin' your pardon, sir, Appleby's the man."

And having satisfied himself, not only that he had done no wrong, but, that on the contrary, he had rendered a considerable service to the theatre, he without waiting for another word from the manager, strutted out of the room.

There was in the theatre a bricklayer, who was constantly retained for the purpose of giving his professional assistance upon any sudden emergency; but as those occasions were not of daily accurrence, he did duty also as a relief of the stage door keeper. This man was a tall, athletic Irishman, named Billy Brown. It had happened that Brown being employeed upon some necessary repairs, Appleby had (to use Brown's words) "dropt an insult upon him which he would never forgive." What was the nature of that insult we have never been able to learn: it seems to have been entirely between the parties for it never was brought to light.—The offence, however, must have been heavy; for, the first time after its perpetration that the parties met, (which was in the hall of the theatre,) Brown caught Appleby up in his arms and actually threw him behind the fire. From this perilous situation he was instantly released by persons who were present, and all he suffered was some damage to his clothes. But Brown never forgave the insult, nor Appleby the injury, and when they met, as sometimes they could not avoid doing, they always passed each other in silence and with a sullen scowl.

On the morning after Appleby's interview with the manager, Brown was in attendance at the stage door. Appleby came as usual. Greatly to his astonishment, he was saluted with, "Good morning to you, Misthur Appleby." But the value of the salute was considerably diminished in Appleby's estimation, by the sneering tone in which it was uttered. Appleby made no reply, but was passing on, when his progress was prevented by Brown's placing his huge arm across the doorway.

"None of your nonsense, beggin' your pardon, Mr. Brown, I'm Appleby!"

"Then you'll walk out of this, Misthur Appleby; you are discharged."

"Discharge Appleby! pooh! Let me know who'll discharge Appleby, and I'll soon let them know that Appleby's the man!"

"Then you'll let Misthur Wroughton know it, Misthur Appleby, for it's by his orders; so walk out of this I tell you."

"I'll see Mr. Wroughton himself," said Appleby, attempting to force a passage under Brown's guard.

"Then you'll see him in the sthrate, for out of this you must go—and quietly if you please." Brown uttered these words with a malignant grin, at the same time pointing significantly at the fire. The hint was sufficient: the burnt child made no reply, but hastily shuffled into the street.

Discharged! Appleby discharged! The doom of Drury was pronounced. The thing could not be; it was an invention of his old enemy, Brown, for the purpose of annoying him.—Such were the thoughts of Appleby as he paced up and down, outside the stage door, in expectation of the arrival of Mr. Wroughton. At length that gentleman made his appearance.

"Beggin' your pardon, sir," said Aplpeby, taking off his hat, but standing erect and looking the manager full in the face—"beggin' your pardon, sir, I have news that will astonish you; Appleby's discharged.

"Well, and what then?" said Mr. Wroughton, in a tone of indifference.

"Beggin' your pordon, sir, I am afraid you don't understand me; I say Appleby's discharged, and you say, 'what then?' Appleby's discharged: Appleby! that's all."

"I have discharged you in consequence of your negligence yesterday. You will be paid the full week's wages, but you will not be wanted here again. You are discharged." Saying this, Mr. Wroughton entered the theatre, leaving Appleby utterly bewildered by the confirmation of his disgrace.

He staggered over the other side of the way and looked up at the building from which he was so unnaturally dissevered, as if he expected nothing less than that its fall must ensue.

"Can't go on," at length he muttered; "can't go on, that's very certain; a wheel out of the machine. Poor Drury! I'm sorry for poor old Drury. Appleby out! Can't be! Mr. Wroughton's a wheel—a big wheel I don't deny it, but Mr. Sheridan's a bigger wheel. Now we'll see what Mr. Sheridan will say to this."

Appleby proceeded directly to the house of the "bigger wheel." Here he was informed that Sheridan was gone down to the House of Commons. Thither he followed him.—He found him in one of the committee rooms. He scribbled something upon a piece of paper, which was handed up to Sheridan, who, with evident alarm, read the words:—Don't be frightened, sir, but I have bad news for you."

Sheridan hurriedly lead the way out of the room. "What in the name of heaven 's the matter," inquired he, "is the theatre on fire, or what?"

"Not exactly that, sir; only begging your pardon, the concern can't go on."

"Oh, the old story, I suppose; the performers have struck for arrears of salary."

"No, sir; but the thing will never enter your head,

I'll tell you: Appleby's discharged."

"Well, and is that all? Is that why you have dared to disturb me?

"All!!!" exclaimed Appleby. "Beggin' your pardon, sir, allow me to ask you a question. Suppose I took a wheel out of your watch—a little wheel, we'll say—what would happen?"

"Why, booby, the watch would stop."

That'll do, sir; that's all I want; for getting at once to the rights of things, Appleby's the man. Now, Mr. Sheridan, this is why the concern can't go on; a little wheel is taken out of the machine. Appleby's discharged. That's all."

Sherdian, who knew and enjoyed the humor of the man, burst laughing in spite of his vexation at the interruption. "Who has discharged you said he, "and why? I suppose you have done something to deserve it.

"I am discharged out of gratitude, sir.—Four hundred and eighty-six pound in the house last night, at first account letting along the half price, and who is to be thanked for it! You know me of old, Mr. Sheridan, so I needn't tell you—Applaby's the man."

Sheridan, who had patiently listened to Appleby's story (which he told after his own fashion,) desired him to meet him at the theatre in an hour, promising to intercede in his behalf with Mr. Wroughton.

Appleby, who now considered his reinstatement in office as a settled thing, loitered about the neighborhood of the House of Commons till Mr. Sheridan came out, and unperceived by him he followed him to the theatre. He entered at the same moment with Sheridan.

"Oh, here you are, Appleby," said Sheridan who had not till then observed him, "come along with me."

"Good morning to you this time, Mr. Brown," said Appleby, as he strutted past his redoubtable foe.

The result of Sheridan's intercession was, as might have been expected, Appleby's restoration to his place:—a severe rebuke, and a fine of ten shillings, for example's sake, being his only punishment. Appleby did not venture down to the hall until he had satisfied himself that all persons who might be there, but Billy Brown, were informed of his being again in power. He then made his appearance with a handfull of letters for delivery. Of the fine and rebuke he said nothing; but, placing himself in the very center of the hall, he folded his arms across his breast, and looking Brown steadily in the face, "Discharge Appleby!" Then, striking his hat firmly down upon his head, he added, "Appleby's the man!"

But poor Appleby did not long live to enjoy his triumph. In his last moments, a friend was with him, who vainly entreated him to send for a clergyman.

"My good fellow," said the friend, "you wish to enter heaven!"

"In course," replied Appleby, faintly: "wheels beggin' your par——big wheels—little—"

"Then if that be your wish," resumed the friend—"if you wish to enter heaven, how can you expect it unless—"

"Leave that to me," said Appleby—"Appleby's the man." And having uttered these, his last words, he turned his head upon his pillow, and expired.

Appleby is no more, but the race of those qui ne prevent pas petite bierre d'eux memes is not extinct.

* Meaning thereby Convent Garden Theatre. "You have had a bad house to-night," said some one to S—who was for many years the box book keeper at Drury Lane Theatre. "Sorry to say, sir, very bad, sir," was that most civil functionary's reply. And with upturned eyes, a pious look, and a hand upon his heart, he added, "But Providence is very kind to us, sir notwithstanding, thank God it is a great deal worse at the Garden, sir."

Report of the Secretary of War.

This document occupies five columns of the Union, but the following synopsis from that paper tells the whole of a long story:

It exhibits, in the first instance, the organization, strength, and constitution of the regular army. The rank and file—embracing every arm of the service—does not exceed 6,500 men. At this time, there is stationed but a single regiment on the whole northern frontier, from Maine to Lake Superior—an extent of two thousand miles; and on the whole line from the falls of St. Anthony to New Orleans, (fifteen hundred miles,) only one regiment of dragoons and two of infantry. The artillery regiments—reduced by detachment of four companies from each—now garrison the fortifications of the seaboard, from Newport to New Orleans. The remaining and larger portion of the army is now stationed in Texas. The report gives an interesting account of the political reasons which have induced the government this destination. The Secretary does not think it prudent to remove the troops from this position until our relations with Mexico have assumed a more decidedly amicable character. In the event of there being any necessity to increase the army, he proposes to build upon the basis of the regiments, by adding to the rank and file of each company, instead of creating new regiments. This necessity may be found in the course of Mexico, or in the conduct of the Camanches, or of the Indians that are found in Oregon, or that may interrupt the increasing current of the emigration to the Rocky mountains. By the proposed arrangement of filling up the infantry companies to sixty-eight men, and the dragoons to sixty, the privates are increased, without a corresponding augmentation of the officers

The report suggests that, besides this increase of the number of privates in the two existing regiments of dragoons, another regiment of dragoons or mounted riflemen may be necessary, in the event of extending our posts to the Rocky mountains.

It states that, though the concentration of so large a proportion of the army on the frontier of Texas may have, in some measure, enlarged the expenditures, (certainly in the article of transportation,) yet it has in some degree, been compensated by the improvement which has taken place in the discipline of the troops. It renews the recommendation for establishing a corps of sappers, miners, and pontoniers, to assist, among other things, in constructing bridges, in consequence of the military occupation of Texas. One hundred men will be sufficient for the purpose.

The report gives a rapid but interesting account of Colonel Kearney's expedition, during the last summer, to the South Pass of the Rocky mountains; the impressions it produced among the Indians; the number of emigrants whom it met on their way to Oregon, to the number of 2,325 men, women, and children, with 7,000 head of cattle, 400 horses and mules, and 460 wagons. This report of Colonel Kearnay accompanies the communication of the commanding general, and will furnish, no doubt, an interesting store of extracts, at a season of great leisure. It also refers to the adventures of another detachment of the dragoons, under the command of Captain Sumner, nearly to the northern line of the United States, between Lake Superior and the Lake of the Woods. Among the Indians whom they met with on their route, and upon whom they made a due impression with their military array, was a numerous band of half-breeds of the Red river of the North, who had come from the region of the Hudson Bay Company into our lines, to hunt buffalo. They had even solicited permission to reside in the United States.

The Secretary refers to the considerations which had prompted General Gaines to despatch the volunteers of Louisiana to the camp of General Taylor. Ample justice is done to their gallantry, and Congress is invited to make appropriations for their compensation. General Taylor had also accepted the services of four Texian companies of mounted men for three months.

The estimates for the ensuing year do not greatly vary from those of former years. The item for arming the fortifications is increased $100,000. The attention of Congress is directed to the state of the fortifications—to the armories of Springfield and Harper's Ferry—to the establishment of a national foundery for cannon—to the preservation of the gunpowder belonging to the government—to the condition of the mineral lands in the Northwest, which the Secretary proposes to transfer from the management of the ordnance department to some other, (the President's message suggests to the land office.)

It calls the attention of Congress to the forty-eight forts in process of construction, and to the propriety of erecting new forts at other points. Among these, as suggested by the reports of the engineers, are fortifications of the narrows at Staten Island and at Sandy Hook, and the condition of the long suspended fortress at the Pea Patch; an additional work at Sollers' Point, for the protection of Baltimore; and projected fortifications on the Florida reef.

The Secretary speaks with great consideration of the school at West Point, and proposes some improvements. He calls special attention to the report of the chief of the corps of topographical engineers—to the improvement of the harbors on the lakes, which are so well calculated to furnish accommodations to steamers that, in a state of war, may be turned to the most effective purposes, and to furnish facilities to a commerce that is now estimated at one hundred millions of dollars annually.

The Secretary speaks with enthusiasm of the expedition under Captain Fremont, and his valuable services. He refers to the reports of the pension office, which has, now registered upon its books 28,921 pensioners—2,371 added during the last year, and 1,438 known to have died. He devotes a considerable space to the Indian agency and the Indians—the Potawatimies, the Choctaws, and particularly the Cherokees. He lays before the President some highly interesting communications from our Indian sub-agent in the territory of Oregon.

He dedicates the conclusion of his comprehensive and very interesting report to a subject which is of so profound an importance in a free government, viz:—the organization of the militia. He suggests various alterations; and, amongst the rest, submits the question whether it might not be advisable to reduce the period of service from 18 years of age to 21, upon the ground that, although citizens of eighteen years of age are not too young to bear arms, they are not generally in a situation to equip themselves with arms, as the law requires.

Report of the Postmaster General.

From the Report of the Postmaster General, accompanying the President's Message, we have compiled the following facts for the information of our readers:—Constitution.

Extent in miles of post roads over which mails were transported on 30th June 1845.		143,814
Amount of transportation during the year ending do.		35,634,269
On horseback and in sulkeys.		11,225,631
By stages and coaches		17,924,046
By steamboats and railroads.		6,484,592
Which cost.	$2,905,504
On horseback and in sulkeys.	548,482

The expenditures	4,320,731 99
The nett revenue, after deducting commissions of postmasters, and contingent and incidental expenses	2,942,217 27

Estimates falling off from change in rates of postage at 45 per cent. Assuming this to be correct, and that the savings on contracts let and to be let will equal the expenses of new routes and improved service, there will be a diminution of means $1, 323, 997

The reduction of cost of transportation of mails in New York for the year ending 30 June next, while the same amount of service will be performed as last year, will be $252,732.

The letting of new routes in the above States will amount to $36,200.

Of 67 railroad contracts in those States only 35 have been adjudged in consequence of exorbitant demands. The railroad service performed is one-tenth part of the whole, the pay they receive one-fifth part.

Should there be a similar saving in the other divisions in letting the new contracts, there will be a further saving—

In the Western section in year ending 30th June, 1847, of $335 000;

Southern section in year ending 30th June, 1848, of $238,000;

Middl section in year ending 30th June, 1849, of $180 000;

The compensation to postmasters and expenses of offices for the year ending 30th June, 1846, $1,409,875,18.

The resignations consequent upon the new law, previous to the issuing of the circular giving the postmasters the same compensation as last year, amount to over 2 000.

Alludes to the frauds committed under the weight system, one envelope which accidentally broke, and was marked postpaid $1,60 contained 100 letters, which were liable to $10 00 postage.

Recommends, if the weight system is to be continued its reduction to a quarter of an ounce for a single postage.

In 1843, the weight of the mails for one week in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Richmond, was tested, and the whole weight amounted to 55,241 lbs.

The newspapers weighed,	44,868	"
Periodicals do	8,857	"
Letters free and taxable, do.	1,916	"

At present, he believes the printed matter is nine-tenths of the weight conveyed, and that it pays only one-tenth of the expense.

He recommends that the rates of postage be hereafter 5 cents for a single letter over 50 and under 300 miles.

15 cents for a single letter over 300 miles. These rates he proposes to continue until the 30th June, 1848, and then abolish the 15 cent rate, and restore the rates as at present. He recommends also the restoration of the former rates of postage on printed matter, giving the right to the publishers of conveying such matter, out of the mails if they think proper; also, a limitation of the number of exchange papers which editors may send and receive free postage, instancing the fact that there are now from 1700 to 1800 newspaper establishments, as proof of the abuse which may be practised under the law as at the present. Also, the restoration of the franking privelege to the postmaster, and that all persons who, under the law, being in the employ of government, had the privilege of receiving letters free, should have have that privilege restored to them. He also recommends most strenuously and energetically the making the payment of all postage imperative upon the senders. The report states that there are estimated to be not less than 300,000 dead letters returned to the Post Office Department quarterly; and during the first quarter under the operation of the new law, 400,000, the postage on which is lost to the Government; as well as an immense amount printed matter which is never taken out of the offices. The magnetic telegraph between Baltimore and Washington has cost, between to 1st April and 1st October, $3,244 99, (including Prof. Morse's salary,) and the receipts have been $412 44.

THE POST OFFICE.—The Postmaster General, in his report, estimates the deficiency in the revenue of the Post Office, during the last fiscal year, at about a million and a quarter of dollars.

We are glad to learn that he recommends that Congress purchase the patent right of Morse's Telegraph, and we hope that his recommendation shall be adopted.

He suggests that the plan of weighing letters shall be abandoned, and the old mode of estimating by the number of pieces of paper in each letter be restored which we hope will not be adopted. If the half ounce weight for a single letter be too much, let it be reduced to a quarter of an ounce, but let us have nothing of the old mode of prying into letters by Post Office clerks, and guessing at how many pieces of paper each letter is made up. Baltimore Patriot.

The New York Tribune says—Money is plenty; most of the bank discounts are made at 6 per cent. Loans on sold stocks are made at 5 per cent. Exchange on England is from 8 to 8½ prem. and falling.

An old hard-shelled minister observed in a late sermon, that "no one ever got religion in a great bustle." Think of this ladies.

COVINGTON.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1845

CHRISTMAS.—Gay, merry Christmas will soon be here to make glad the young heart of childhood. We hope old Chris' Kringle will be liberal in his gifts to the lovely innocents who are so anxiously awaiting his arrival.

WHIG VICTORY.—Mr. Ewing, the Whig candidate for Congress in the Nashville district, is elected by about 1,200 majority over his Locofoco competitor, General Trousdale.

☞ G. S. Orth, a thorough Whig, has been elected President of the Senate of Indiana.

SUICIDE.—A young man, named Dutoit, a French Baker of this city, committed suicide, a few evenings since, by taking Prussic Acid.

MUSICAL FESTIVAL.—By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that the Ladies of Trinity Church, of this city, propose giving a Musical Festival at the city Hall, on Tuesday evening next, the proceeds of which are to be applied to the benefit of the Church. The entertainment, we are assured, will be "got up," with great taste, and those who attend may well expect a rich treat. The Ladies deserve the highest commendation for their enterprising and charitable efforts to render the Church comfortable, and we trust they will be liberally sustained.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL, PHILADELPHIA.—We call the attention of the travelling public to the advertisement of this deservedly popular Hotel. The proprietor, Mr. A. F. Glass is well acquainted with his business, a good caterer, and possesses an accommodating spirit, which never fails to render the stay of his customers, comfortable and pleasant.

UMBRELLAS.—Mr. W. H. Richardson has opened on Market St., Philadelphia, a new and cheap Umbrella and Parasol manufactory. Mr. R. is a liberal man and deserves encouragement. We bespeak for him the patronage of Western merchants. See advertisement.

☞ We call the attention of the public to Mr. Ackerman's advertisement. His stock is large, beautiful and cheap. Give him a call.

☞ The steamers Caspian, Little Rock and Richmond have been sunk.

☞ The Columbus Stage upset, near Cincinnati, a few days since, wounding several persons.

☞ A man was killed on the Little Miami Rail Road at Milford, on Wednesday—the first serious accident that has occurred on that road.

The Next Legislature.

The Kentucky Legislature assembles on Wednesday week. Although there will be much important business brought before that body, we hope it will be speedily despatched, and the good example of a short session established for the future action of our State Assembly. There is no necessity in wasting the people's money in long speeches. Thirty days, we think, long enough to transact all necessary business. But more of this hereafter.

He (the editor of the Register) only wants to go as far as "our rights extend!"—Certainly he would go no further.—Ky. Intelligencer.

Do our neighbors wish us to go farther than our rights? Do they mean to say that they will go farther? If so we cannot go with them. We abhor injustice in every form, and shall never sanction it while we have the power to resist it.

☞ The editors of the Intelligencer fully sustain Mr. Polk in his views on the Tariff, and the justly odious "Subtreasury." They intimate that Mr. Polk but repeats their oft expressed sentiments on the Tariff. Well, perhaps it may be their Thunder. They are welcome to all the credit to which a war against the labor, the industry and the best interests of our country, may entitle them.

GOVERNOR'S ELECTION.—Wm. Smith, Esq., of Fauquier was on Wednesday elected Governor of virginia for three years, from the 1st of January, 1846. His majority over all others was 28.

☞ It is rumored in Washington that Vice President Dallas is going on the bench of the Supreme Court, resigning the Vice Presidency for that purpose.

C. J. McNULTY.—A letter from Washington, of the 12th inst., says this gentleman was yesterday delivered into the custody of the marshal by his bail. He remained till six o'clock in the court room, whence he was conducted to jail, where he now is in confinement. He has been unable to produce new bail, and will have to remain in jail to abide the result of his trial, which is fixed for Thursday, the 16th inst.

THE MARKETS.—The Baltimore Patriot of Saturday says:—Our commercial review of today presents a full and accurate statement of the markets, made up with great care, and upon information of the most reliable character. It will be seen that a decided and positive decline has taken place in the prices of flour and wheat. This is owing to the recent unfavorable advice from Europe, and the present unsettled state of our relations with England. It is pretty generally conceded, however, that the point to which the prices of flour and wheat had-been heretofore raised by an excited state of affairs, was beyond what facts and figures in reality justified, and more than shippers and speculators were actually authorized in giving. The impression among merchants generally now is, that the present rates will be maintained until the arrival of further foreign advices, which may be looked for in the course of eight or ten days.

DEATH OF THE HON. JOHN COTTON SMITH.—The venerable John Cotton Smith, president of the American Bible Society, is numbered with the dead. Those who have attended the anniversaries of the Bible society at New York for several years, will recollect the deceased as the presiding officer of that society, and the friends of the Bible Society were always delighted by his efforts to promote the welfare of that noble institution. He died at his residence in Sharon, Litchfield county, Ct., on the 7th inst., in the 81st year of his age.

The Oregon Question.

The deepest anxiety is beginning to be felt throughout the country in regard to the probable issue of the Oregon question. In the Eastern cities, the panic is so great as seriously to affect the markets. The probability of a War with Great Britain is now admitted on all hands, and the action of the present Congress will be watched with more interest than that of any similar body which has assembled for many years. When we consider that the peace of this country, and perhaps the peace of the world, depends upon it, we cannot but regard it with feelings of no ordinary nature. The sentiment of the Age is for Peace. The sentiment of the civilized nations of the Globe is for Peace. The sentiment of America, we may emphatically say, is for Peace—[illegible] for Peace upon honorable, manly terms. Dearly as we value the countless blessings of the Heaven-sent messenger, we would not purchase them with the sacrifice of National glory. For what is a nation without glory—without honor! Even as the citizen cannot be respected without a fair name, even as in the social circle the poltroon, the dastard or the slave is scowled at with contempt, so a nation cannot be respected, be honored, admired or feared in the family of Nations, without honor, courage to defend her rights, or manliness to resist and punish insult and wrong. We should cease to be proud of the name of American, if our country should cease to maintain her rights. We honor our country only as she is honorable, and whenever she looses her self-respect—her courage—her glory—when ever she ceases to act, in her intercourse with other nations, upon the principle of justice and defiance of power, which have won for her a name so proud, so lofty, so elevated, as to fill the earth with its renown, we should cease to yield to her that devotion, that homage which has ever animated our heart. We would pity her, we would weep over her fall, but we could not respect a nation of slaves. And such would be the condition of our country if she would tamely, dastardly submit to aggression from any nation on the earth.

We wish our position on the Oregon question clearly understood. In this question we carry with us the same glorious principles which have ever characterized the Whig Party—that party which has always been on the side of our own country and our own countrymen, when her interests and rights—the interests and rights of her citizens—came in conflict with those of any other country. This was the proud position of our great leader, Henry Clay, in 1812, when he stood gallantly up in the National council boldly and eloquently advocating the honor of his country. This has ever been his position since, and the position of the Whig party. We see it exemplified in their advocacy of the doctrine of Protection, by means of a Tariff, which protects our citizens from the blighting influences of Foreign competition. We see it exemplified also in their advocacy of a sound currency, internal improvements &c. &c., which are necessary to develope the national resources and push us on in our career of greatness and prosperity. So we say in regard to the Oregon question, that after all just steps have been taken to settle the controversy honorably and peaceably, and failed, we should maintain our rights with the sword—by the wager of battle, trusting in the aid of that Great Power, who has never deserted the cause of the just. We look beyond party in this question. Party feeling, party prejudice should have nothing to do with a question of such vast and fearful importance. Now what we maintain is this, that the controversy is one properly belonging to Diplomacy—to negotiation—and we deeply regret that there appears little probability of it being settled in this way. Whatever may be our rights to Oregon, whether extending to the 54th degree or the 49th only, it was perfectly and legitimately within the power of the parties negotiating to settle it, by compromise, by concession, by expediency, without inflicting the slightest stain upon the escutcheon of either country. But when all the powers and means of negotiation have been exhausted unsuccessfully, and the question becomes a matter for Legislative action, then we say, that our National Legislature cannot yield one inch of territory without dishonor, and direful as its calamities certainly are, we say give us war, rather than Submission. Not that we would hazzard the peace of mankind for a mere strip of Territory. The value of Oregon would by no means compensate for the treasure, the blood, the life, which would be expended in a war. But it is for the honor of the Republic, for the respect of the good and the brave, to save us from the imputation of cowardice, that we would brave these calamities. Our territory is perhaps large enough, and by extending it, we would probably weaken the bonds of the Union. But what is the Union worth, if we will not maintain our rights?

From what has been said, our readers will probably infer, that should a war be the consequence of this controversy, we will stand up to the Administration, on that subject. And so will we. While we are a Whig, while the glorious principles of that truly glorious party—the party of Madison, of Monroe and of Clay—reign within us, we can do nothing else. Our country right or wrong, is our motto. Still we hope she may be right—we hope, from the bottom of our heart, that our rulers will act will all the prudence, caution, wisdom and patriotism, which the deep importance of the subject demands. We cannot approve all that Mr. Polk has done in regard to Oregon. He was too precipitate in his policy, too hasty in expressing himself, while the matter was in the course of negotiation. But when, we repeat, all the powers of negotiation shall have failed, we should look beyond Mr. Polk. We should loose sight of men and parties and stand up for our country.

In regard to our title to Oregon, we do not profess to be as well informed as others, who have more fully investigated it. Among these, there is a variety of opinions. We say this, however, that to whatever point it extends, the representatives of the people, when it comes before them, should maintain it.

We sincerily hope that negotations may be renewed, and this question settled without war. And we are decidedly in favor of an honorable compromise. We deprecate war as one of the greatest misfortunes which can befall a people. What sight is more heart-rendering than a field of battle! To see men, often friends, who have interchanged all the kindly feelings of the social circle—brothers of the same original stock, struggling in fearful deadly conflict, is a sight to make the most obdurate weep. And then what awful consequence follow the dread contest! Thousand, tens of thousands, of human beings, whose hearts but a few moments previous were bounding with warmth, and hope, and joy, and enthusiasm, are weltering in their gore—the groans of the wounded and the dying fill the air, amid the shouts of victory. Nor is this all. Devastated fields, smoking cities, weeping widows, destitute orphans, forlorn parents, and bereaved children make up a portion of the awful effects of every battle.

We would rejoice to see these sickening calamities avoided, if possible. We would rejoice to have our country blessed with continued peace. No mind can conceive the greatness which a peace of twenty years would secure this nation. Yet we must have peace on none other than honorable terms.

MR. CUTTER'S POEMS.—We copy the following complimentary notice of Mr. Cutter's forthcoming volume, from the Frankfort Commonwealth:

THE WHITE CHIEF, and other Poems, by G. W. Cutter.—It is proposed to publish, by subscription, a volume of original poems, entitled as above, containg about 200 pages, should sufficient patronage be obtained to justify it. The book will be published in the most approved modern style, bound in plain but substantial manner and delivered to subscribers as soon as practicable after subscriptions enough are made, at one dollar per copy, payable on delivery.

We hope the public will give Mr. Cutter's proposal a prompt, hearty and generous reception. His Song of Steam, Miser's Death, and Ode to Henry Clay, are redolent of the highest sweets of poetry, and either of those beautiful effusions is worth the cost of the book. A prospectus is at this office. We will cheerfully receive and forward subscriptions. Or communications, may be addressed to Mr. Cutter or Mr. Joseph Powell, Covington, Ky.

CINCINNATI FURNITURE.—See the advertisement of Mr. Geyer of Cincinnati. Those wishing fine furniture and cheap, cannot do better than at his establishment. Our friends will consult their own interest by calling and examing his establishment.

ARREST OF GEORGE POTTER, THE NOTORIOUS PICKPOCKET.—George Potter, the notorious pickpocket, who fled from New York recently, carrying with him a large sum of money, was arrested in New Orleans, where he was figuring under the name of James McGraw, on the night of the 27th of November, by Mr. John E. Durivage, of the N. O. Picayune. A large reward had been offered by Gov. Wright for his apprehension, and officer Robert Bowyer, who had been previously on his trail and had driven him South, thinking the scoundrel would probably strike for New Orleans, wrote to Mr. Durivage, who, in a half an hour after he had received the letter encountered Potter in the street, recognized him, and detained him in conversation until the arrival of an officer, to whose hands he was consigned. Directly on learning his arrest, officer Bowyer started for New Orleans with a requisition in his pocket from Gov. Wright for Potter.

HORRIBLE OCCURRENCE.—The Warsaw, Illinois, Signal of the 3d inst., says:—"On last Saturday week some teamsters in passing through the south western part of Clark County, Missouri, set fire to the prairie, whether by accident or design we know not. The farm of Mrs. Skiles, (the mother-in-law of the Hon. Amos Kendall of Washington city,) being in danger, she ran out to extinguish the fire before it became uncontrolable. The wind, blowing violently, connected the flames to her dress. Her cries brought her son to her relief; but while making efforts to extinguish the flames that enveloped his mother the fire on the prairie surrounded them and both perished on the spot."

FIRE IN FRANKFORT.—A fire broke out in Frankfort, on Sunday week, which consumed an entire block of two story brick buildings before its progress was arrested. There was no insurance. No estimate of the loss given.

☞ A Vicksburg editor gives the following as a specimen of the Alexandrian line:

"Oh for a tongue to speak the doom
The wretch deserves, so beastly vile.
As to sneak into a printer's room,
When the editor's out, and steal his very best exchange papers off the file!"

Ex-Governor Jones, of Tennessee, has been on a visit to New Orleans, where he met with every attention. A public dinner was given to him on the 29th ult. by the Whig young men of that city. After the cloth was removed, the President of the occasion, O. O. Kain, Esq. proposed a complimentary toast to Gov. Jones, to which that gentleman responded at some length, passing an eloquent eulogy on the character of Mr. Clay, and speaking in well merited terms of the zeal and enthusiasm of the Whigs of Tennessee. Successive sentiments bro't out also the Hon. S. S. Prentiss, A. C. Bulliti, and C. C. Norvell, Esqs. and other gentlemen, in pertinent addresses.

LITERARY.—Charles Dickens is said to be writing a novel, to appear in the old form of weekly numbers, containing the adventures of an English family travelling on the continent and embarrassed by English prejudices, and utter ignorance of the languages.

Fennimore Cooper has in the English press a new work in three volumes, entitled "Elinor Wyllys, a tale of American Life. His "Chain-Bearer" is also in the press of Bentley.

DISEASE AMONG THE TURNIPS.—The Liverpool Mercury of the 14th ult., publishes an extract of a letter from a magistrate of the County of Louth, stating that "the destruction of the turnip crop is much more complete than that of the potatoe. All the Swedes are rotten at the core; yet their external appearance is as good as usual." Accounts from the south of England also state, that the turnips there have been attacked in a similar way."

The New York Evening Post objects to some portions of the President's Message, and particularly to that which recommends liberal grants of lands "to the patriotic pioneers" who made early settlements in Oregon. It very sagely questions whether the first settlers of Oregon are more patriotic than their brethren who remain at home?

MR. CALHOUN AND OREGON.—In speaking of Mr. Calhoun's position on the Oregon dispute, the United States Gazette says:

We have occasion to know that Mr. Calhoun has, since his visit to Louisiana, expressed himself freely in regard to the Oregon question. He does not doubt as to the right of the United States to the territory, and he has no doubt that the right can be asserted and sustained, without the least disturbance of the present happy state of peace and commerce between the United States and Great Britain. But at the same time Mr. Calhoun fears that the Cabinet will not be guarded in its language and conduct relative to the claim of Great Britain, and will thus impose upon Congress the necessity of a course which might be easily avoided, and which will be full of misery and woe to the people of both countries.

Mr. Calhoun looks at the Oregon question, then, as liable to precipitate us into war, not because war is necessary, but because prudence is wanted.

Josiah Quincy, Whig, has been elected by a majority of 2264 over all others, mayor of Boston.

CONGRESS.

On the 9th Messrs. Dowe and Fisk sent to the Senate, a proposition to execute the printing at a reduction of 40 per cent, from the prices allowed by the Act of 1819, or of 20 per cent. from the prices paid at the last session.

The Senate then proceeded to the election of Secretary. The following was the result of the 1st ballot—

For Mr. Sturgis, - - - - - 25
For Mr. Dickens, - - - - - 24

Mr. Beale was elected Sergeant-at-Arms, getting 44; scattering 5.

There were four ballots for Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms—on the 4th, Holland, Blair & Rives' old clerk, elected, over Salisbury 22, others 2.

A message was received from the President of the United States transmitting the Constitution adopted by Texas preparatory to her admission into the Union, which was read and laid on the table.

The following persons were then elected Chairmen of the Standing Committees:

Foreign Affairs—Allen; Finance—Calhoun; Commerce—Haywood; Manufactures—Dickinson; Agriculture—Sturgeon; Military Affairs—Benton; Militia—Atchison; Naval Affairs—Fairfield; Public Lands—Breese; Private Land Claims—Levy; Indian Affairs—Sevier; Claims—Bagby; Revolutionary Claims—Semple; Judiciary—Ashley.

In the House, numerous petitions were presented, when the House adjourned.

In the Senate, on the 10, the Chairman of a number of the Standing Committees unacted on, were elected, as follows:

Post Office and Post Roads—Niles.
Roads and Canals—Hannegan.
Pension—Upham.
District of Columbia—Haywood.
Patents and Patent Office—Cameron.
Contingent Expenses—Niles.
Public Buildings—Cameron.
Printing—Atherton.
Retrenchment—Lewis;
Territories—Westcott;
Engrossed Bills—Chalmers.
Foreign Affairs—Allen.
Finance Committee—Calhoun.

Without filling up the remaining Committees, the Senate adjourned.

The House did but little. A resolution to admit Texas into the Union, was made the order of the day for Tuesday following.

In the Senate, on the 11th Mr. Webster appeared and took his seat.

Resolutions of regret were offered at the death of J. B. Dawson of La., and passed.

Senate adjourned.

In the House, Mr. Adams presented remonstances against the Annexation of Texas as a Slave State. He said, as the House was determined to hurry through Annexation, regardless of them, he should submit, and simply present them. He presented a great number—and members from Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, and Massachusetts did the same.

Mr. Giddings presented remonstrances from Ohio.

Petitions were received from the States, and the House adjourned.

The Senate did not sit on Friday or Saturday. The House met, when the death of Dr. J. H. Peyton, of Tennessee, was announced, by Mr. Brown, with appropriate remarks. Immediately after the House adjourned.

It is rumored that Andrew Jackson Donelson is to be appointed Minister to Russia, in the place of Col. Todd.

ABOLITION PETITIONS.—A proposition was made, in the U. S. House of Representatives, on the 1st day of its session to revive the famous 21st rule against Abolition Petitions, and was lost—ayes 81, nays 121.

A RICH SCENE.—The following is an extract from the New York correspondent of the North American.

A piquant story is told of an affair which came off at the "Empire Ball" at Tammany Hall, some notice of which I wrote you a day or two ago. A couple of ladies of the town had been complained of for keeping a disorderly house, and a warrant was issued for their apprehension. The officer to whom it was entrusted, called at their house, and was told that the 'ladies' were at the Empire Ball.

Returning to old Tammany, the officer concluded not to disturb the festivities of the occasion, and so waited patiently for the ball to break up. Meanwhile the ladies in question were enjoying the evening up stairs, and many a cavalier sighed in disappointment at not being permitted the honor of touching their fairy hands in the dance. The dignitaries of the party, many of whom were present, vied with each other in their attentions to the demoiselles, and a worthy and a gallant Alderman was particularly pointed in his attentions. At length the party closed, and our two heroines were proceeding to their carriage under the escort of an office-holder who had been so fortunate as to secure that distinguished honor, when the police officer politely stepped up, presented his warrant, and malgre all remonstrances—even tears and supplications such as gin alone can inspire in "lovely woman"—conveyed his victims to the Tombs, to await the stern and vigorous action of the law.

The best of the joke is, that a morning paper, distinguished for the richness of its pretensions to refinement and intelligence, the next morning contained a full account of the ball, with particular and minute descriptions of "the beautiful Miss P——— and the charming Mrs F———, who took captive all hearts." The next notice of the fashionable movements of these distinguished ladies was contained in the Police Report of the same infallible journal.

TOO GOOD TO BE LOST.—During a great revival in the Blue Law State, which occurred some time since, a vast number were gathered into the fold, who subsequently returned to the error of their ways, thereby inflicting a great injury upon the church. Among this class was a most inveterate punster by the name of Siah Hawkins, who some weeks after his hopeful conversion, was found by one of the deacons of the church to which he belonged in a neighboring grog shop "most gloriously elevated."

"Why, Siah, I am astonished," said the worthy deacon, "didn't we take you into our church a short time since!"

"I believe so," hicrupped Siah, "and between you and (hic) me, it was just a little of the (hic) darndest take in you ever saw or heard of."

Consumption or Going into a Decline.

Cure follows Cure, by the use of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy.

MR. WM. P. PETERS, Richmond, Indiana, was taken with a bad Cold last Spring, which seated upon his lungs, at length cavities and ulcers formed, his Physician used every thing that he thought of, but to no effect; he informed him that he could not be cured, that nothing more could be done; in the mean time, a friend of his, Mr. Howell, induced him to send to David P. Hollaway, who is agent in that place, for the medicine, which he did. Before using two bottles, he found that he was getting better. After using six bottles he became perfectly satisfied that the Medicine was certain to cure him as well as ever. He sent for six bottles more, and is happy to state to those afflicted, that he has used 4 of them and became in all respects Hearty, and feels himself entirely cured. He wishes those lines published in the Public Papers, that others afflicted with Consumption may know the virtues of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy, and spare their life.

We the undersigned are well acquainted with Mr. Peters, and know his case to be as above stated.

For sale at this Office.

Light's Compound Syrup of Horehound, Boneset, and Elecampane, for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Croup, Asthma, and all affections of the Chest and Lungs.

THE medicinal properties of Horehound, Boneset and Elecampane are to well known by every person to need description. These names are sufficient to give confidence in a medicine of which they are a component part and to ensure those who use a medicine composed partly of them and made up of other ingredients that are used in the every day practice of physicians, for Coughs, Colds, &c., that they are sure to derive some benefit from their use, or at least that they will not be injured by it.

There is scarcely a case of Coughs, Colds, pains in the side, difficulty of breathing, tightness of the chest, or any afflictions of the breast or lungs, but what will be relieved by the use of this Syrup.

Those persons laboring under Chronic Catarrh and Asthma will find themselves particularly benefitted by its use.

When taken according to the directions, it is mild in its operations; it allays the cough, loosens the phlegm, and causes easy expectoration.

THE first quarter of this school has just terminated. As the number of pupils warrants the appointment of an additional professor, the appointment has been given to Mr. E. C. Allen, who is to enter immediately on his duties. Mr. A as the principal of a flourising school in this state, has established the reputation of an unusually skilful Teacher. The general supervision of the school will, as heretofore, devolve on Prof. A. Drury, who will give instruction in the Ancient Languages, and in some of the principal branches of an English Education. Mr. Allen will teach Mathematics, including practical Surveying and the most improved methods of Book-Keeping—also, Elocution and Penmanship.

It is the intention of the Trustees, that there shall be an instructor for every twenty pupils in attendance.

The year is divided into two sessions of twenty weeks each. The tuition is $40, per annum.

CLAYTON'S WHOLESALE HOUSE FOR GOLD AND SILVER WATCHES, JEWELRY, WATCH MATERIALS, TOOLS, &C.—All articles in the above line sold at New York and Philadelphia prices. An immense saving to Watch Makers and Dealers in Jewelry to purchase at this establishment, for the expense of travelling East, the loss of time, and the great risk of getting goods out safe, will be entirely saved.

Watch Materials and Tools will be sold twenty-five to fifty per cent. lower than they have ever been sold in the western country. Lunet Glasses (warranted the best imported,) such as have been selling here at nine and a half dollars, will be sold at seven and a half. Also, the best Quelet Mainsprings fifty per cent, reduced in price, and a similar reduction in the price of almost every article.

The above statement may appear to some as a mere business puff, but R. C. assures the public that if any persons who have lately purchased East, (goods such as are above described) will show him their bills that he will supply them with the same kind at precisely the same prices.

He would also respectfully invite those friends who have hitherto favored him with their patronage, and the public in general, to call and see his goods, particularly his Gold and Silver Watches, (for a better and more splendid assortment cannot be found west of the mountains,) consisting of M. J. Tobias' best Gold Levers, cased in various ways; also, Levers of other eminent makers; and a variety of Ladies' Gold Watches, with lever and cylender escapements. STOP YOUR COUGH'S and SAVE DOCTOR'S BILLS.

THE CELEBRATED INDIAN MAGICAL EXPECTORANT, is with much confidence offered as a certain, speedy and effectual cure for coughs, colds, asthma, croup, consumption and all diseases affecting the lungs or breast.

The time having arrived when nature and art can meet on equal grounds, the proprietor would simply add, that no remedy known to him has exercised such powerful influence in completely removing from the lungs all those diseases to which they are so liable.

The Indian Magical Expectorant has long and favorably been in use, being composed exclusively of those vegetable articles most appreciated and used by all physicians as most valuable in diseases of the lungs.

This Expectorant is not offered as a great many of the catch-penny remedies are, as a specific for all diseases, but as a remedy that has stood the severest trials of experience as a pleasant, safe and sure cure for the diseases of the Lungs.

The Proprietor deems it unecessary to publish all the certificates that have so rapidly flown in upon him, and will simply append a few from his nearest neighbors—persons well and favorably known.

COVINGTON, JANUARY 1845.

DR. WISE—Dear Sir:—My family, as you are aware, have more or less been afflicted with coughs and pain in the Breast, and occasionally attacked suddenly and severely with cough. Having tried a great many remedies, I can with great confidence assert that none has had such a powerful effect as your Indian Magical Expectorant—relieving the severest attacks by a few doses. I know of no remedy possessing such virtues as the Indian Magical Expectorant; it being pleasant to the taste and without any of the unpleasant effects of most medicines. I thus offer my certificate, you being at liberty to use it as you deem proper, being satisfied that all who use it will be convinced of its usefulness.

Respectfully yours,
HIRAM BOND.

COVINGTON, APRIL 1845.

DR. WISE—Dear Sir:—Having had occasion at different times in my family to use your Indian Magical Expectorant, I can with confidence declare that its effects have been astonishing in stopping the severest coughs; and all that I have heard speak of it say, that it has had the happiest effects in curing diseases of the Breast.

Respectfully yours,
A. P. ROSE.

COVINGTON, MARCH 1845.

DR. WISE—Dear Sir:—Feelling under great obligation to you for furnishing my family during the Fall and Winter with the Indian Magical Expectorant, who were much afflicted with severe Colds and Coughs, indeed, one of my children was so severly and obstinately afflicted with a cough which we were all fearful would terminate in Consumption, but by taking two bottles of your invaluable Indian Magical Expectorant was, as by magic completely relieved. Feeling much obliged and indebted, I am constrained to offer you this certificate in the hope that others afflicted with coughs may be cured

Respectfully yours,
SIMEON PERRY.

Let all the World know the wonderful efficacy of Dr. Duncan's EXPECTORANT REMEDY!

For the cure of Consumption and the symptoms indicating "going into a decline."

Dr. Duncan—Dear Sir:—

The undersigned, a patient under my care for the last three months, who has been laboring with Phthisis Pulmonalis, or pulmonary consumption, and finding that no medicine I could prescribe would afford him any relief, I was therefore determined to test your EXPECTORANT REMEDY, at the same time having no confidence in the medicine set forth to cure consumption; but to please the patient, I allowed him to send to your agent in Wooster, Dr. J. P. Coulterer, for the medicine, which he did, and used it according to the directions accompanying the bottles, and truly to my astonishment, I found my patient fast improving, which he continued until he became perfectly well. I believe he used only 7 bottles. By his request, I write you these lines, hoping your expectorant medicine will continue to do for the consumptives generally as in the above case.

Yours respectfully,
Dr. James R. Rickey.

I willingly subscribe my name to the above as being a solemn and sincere fact. I hope those afflicted with that dreadful disease, consumption, will find out your medicine in time, and be cured.

MORE CURES PERFORMED BY DR. DUNCAN'S EXPECTORANT REMEDY.

Dr. Duncan—Dear Sir:—You may perhaps remember that I consulted with you at your office in Cincinnati, in June last, when you examined my lungs and informed me that there was a small cavity forming in the lobe of my left lung, with slight ulcerations, and advised me to take a few bottles of the EXPECTORANT REMEDY, which I bought of you (6 bottles.) I have used 4 of them, and feel as well as I ever did in my life. My cough disappeared after using the first bottle, the pain in my breast also left me, my strength increased, and also my appetite. The medicine caused me to expectorate large quantities of foul matter; after this was all thrown up, I felt relief at once. I think that the whole world should know something about the good effects of your "EXPECTORANT REMEDY," for the removal of the first symptoms leading to Consumption. Please inform me if you think it advisable for me to use the medicine any longer.

Yours truly, and ever grateful,

PEARL STREET HOUSE.

THE subscriber (formerly proprietor of the Williamson House, Lebanon, Ohio,) has taken this elegant and commodious house, corner of Walnut and Pearl streets, Cincinnati. Having renovated and refitted it, he hereby informs his friends and the Public at large, that he is now prepared to entertain all that may be pleased to call on him, in a style equal to any other establishment in the city. To his friends he thinks it enough to say that 'he is here,' and that no pains shall be spared on his part to render their sojourn at his house pleasant and comfortable. To the public he would say that no house in the West shall surpass it in point of respectability. It will be the Stage House for J & P. Voorhees' line, east, north and west. Seats in all these lines taken at the bar. Good stabling for horses, hacks and carriages when wanted.

NEW ESTABLISHMENT!

Tailoring and Repairing

WHO would not economise when a small fortune can be saved by having his old clothes done over. The subscriber flatters himself that he can clean old clothes and repair them in a manner superior to any person in this city, and at one third less than the usual price. He will take Tar, Paint, Grease, Pitch Varnish or any other dirt, out of Cloth, Silk, Satin or any kind of Woolen goods, and leave no stains.

All Faded Colors Restored!

Gentlemen hesitate to have their clothing scoured on account of the many impostors who ruin the cloth by scouring with soap. Carrige Cushions, Hangings, Pulpit Covers, Sofas, Chair Covers, Window Hangings, Carpets and Hearth Rugs, cleaned, dressed and made to appear as new. Ladies and Gentlemen give him a call, and be convinced that some things can be done as well as others.

He has also a DYEING ESTABLISHMENT, connected with the renovating shop.

The materials made use of in his process of renovating and cleaning, effectually prevents moths from destroying any kind of Woolen goods. Persons having Woolen clothing which they intend to lay aside during the summer would do well to have them first cleaned by this process.

TO PREVENT MISTAKES,

WHICH are frequently attended with serious consequences, citizens & strangers should be careful to find the CINCINNATI LOCK DISPENSARY, ESTABLISHED IN 1838, for the CURE AND PREVENTION of Venereal disease, Seminal weakness and all diseases affecting the organs of generation in either sex.

DR. BROWN,

The Founder and Proprietor of this Institution, having been regularly educated to the medical profession, and been for some time in general practice, now confines his attention to the treatment of those private and delicate complaints for which his opportunities and experience peculiarly qualify him Eleven Years assiduously devoted to the study and treatment of these complaints, (during which time he has had more practice and has cured more patients, than can ever fall to the lot of any private practitioner,) amply qualifies him to offer assurances of speedy, permanent and satisfactory cure to all afflicted with Gonorhœa, Syphilis, Mercurial Disease, Gleet, Structure, Seminal Weakness, Whites, and all diseases arising therefrom.

Dr. Brown would inform those afflicted with Gonhœa, which have become chronic by time, or aggravated by the use of any of the common nostrums of the day, that their complaints can be radically and thoroughly cured, he having given his careful attention to the treatment of such cases, and succeeded in hundreds of instances, in curing persons of inflamation of the neck of the bladder, seminal losses, and partial or total prostration of the virile powers, which often result from these cases, where others have consigned them to hopeless despair. He particularly invites such as have been long and unsuccessfully treated by others, to consult him, when every satisfaction will be given them, and their cases treated in a careful, thorough and intelligent manner, pointed out by long experience, study and investigation, which it is impossible for those engaged in general practice of medicine to give any one class of disease.

Dr. Brown is the only regularly educated surgeon in Cincinnati, who gives his whole attention to these complaints. His diplomas and certificates can be seen at his office.

☞ Charges very low.

N. B.—Patients of either sex living at a distance, by stating their disease in writing, giving all the symptoms, can obtain medicines with directions for use, by addressing S. C. Brown M. D., post paid and enclosing a fee.

CURE YOUR COUGHS AND COLDS AND PREVENT CONSUMPTION!

By taking "Dr. Jackson's Compound Syrup of Sassafras and Wild Cherry."

THIS elegant preparation has established itself upon a solid foundation wherever it has been tried. It has no equal for the speedy cure of Coughs, Colds and other affections of the lungs, Weakness and Pains in the breast, &c. &c.

Amongst many certificates received from those who have used it, we will only extract a few.

The Rev. G. G. Moore, Episcopal Minister at Paris Ky, writes to us as follows.

Paris, Ky. Oct. 6th 1845

Gentlemen, I am pleased to learn that you are about to send your valuable Compound Syrup of Sassafras and Wild Cherry to this place for sale. Having used it myself, and in my family for a year or two past, I am free to say, that in cases of Colds and Affections of the Lungs and Chest, I have never known anything to equal it. You will certainly deserve the thanks of the Community, and particularly of those afflicted with Coughs, for having provided such a specific; and not the thing least to be desired in it, it is pleasant to the taste.

Yours very respectfully
G. G. MOORE.

Certificate of Joseph Powell Esq.

Having used the Compound Syrup of Sassafras and Wild Cherry in my family for more than two years in Colds and Coughs, I am fully prepared to testify to its virtues.

My son has been subject to the Croup for several years, and frequently came near dying with it before I made use of this Syrup. Since using which, I can state with great pleasure to Parents generally, that he has been entirely relieved from every attack at the beginning, by simply taking one or two doses.

I consider this Syrup invaluable in Colds and Coughs, and have never known it fail of curing the worst Case, when used in time.

Indeed so valuable do I consider this Medicine, that I would on no account suffer my family to be without it through the winter season. It need only be tried to be appreciated.

J. W. POWELL, Covington, Ky.

Covington, October 7th, 1845.

Drs. Bennett & Pretlow—I have been using the Compound Syrup of Sassafras & Wild Cherry in my family for more than a year, and find it all it purports to be; having always proved efficacious in my family whenever used as directed, in Coughs, Colds, &c., and it gives me pleasure to contribute my evidence in favor of its virtues.

In the case of a young man who was some time in my employ, its effects were truly wonderful! He had laboured under great weakness of the breast, loss of apppetite, Dyspepsia, Cough, and general debility, and was for weeks unable to attend to business. I prevailed on him to take this Syrup, which relieved him right away, and by the time he was through with the second bottle was restored to good health. It is now more than a year and he has not been troubled since with disease.

Yours &c, JOHN R. STEWART.

Other references, and ample directions accompany each bottle. The retail price is 50 cents per bottle. Agents will be supplied on favorable terms, by the proprietors.

NO EXCUSE FOR A BALD HEAD

HAIR TONIC.—The following communication from the Rev. Professor Eaton, of Hamilton College, N. Y., in addition to hundreds of others equally respectable should remove the doubts of every reasonable person of the uniform and singular efficacy of Jayne's Hair Tonic:

HAMILTON, Feb 18, 1840.

DR. JAYNE, Dear Sir—I cannot say that my hair is restored but I can say that it appears to be in as rapid a state of restoration as could be reasonably expected. I had not finished the first bottle before a decided change was manifest over the bald part of the head to which it was applied. A new growth of fine glossy hair much like that of an infant appeared and has continued to increase; and I have had it cut two or three times. I have recently begun upon the third bottle, but have been a good deal irregular in the use of the tonic from the first, and from this one use I apprehend that the effect is probably less at present than it would otherwise have been.

I began the use of the Tonic with little or no faith that it would ever be successful on my head, though I felt entire confidence in your statement of what it had done to others; and I was as much surprised as astonished when I saw the effect. You recollect the appearance of my head when in your office. I assure you the hair has been nearly if not quite an inch long at the time I had it cut, on the part that was nearly destitute of any when you saw me. It was however very fine though quite thick. I am flushed with the sanguine hope of final success, by the diligent use of your tonic which (amid all the "hair humbugs" which have been advertised in the papers,) I am constrained to believe is what it pretends to be, and "that it will make the hair grow and no mistake," at least on some heads GEO. W. EATON.

Professor in the Hamilton literary and Theological Seminary.

Copy of a Letter from the Rev. C. C. Park Pastor Baptist Church, at Haddonfield N. J.

HADDONFIELD, N. J., Feb 12, 1838.

DR. D. JAYNE: Sir—I take great pleasure in informing you that the bottle of Hair Tonic which I obtained of you last October, has proved most successful. My hair had for a long time been exceedingly thin; But for two or three years past had so fallen out, that I had become entirely bald, and was under the necessity of combing the hair on the side over it, and thus concealing it. But now after using about half a bottle of the Tonic I have as luxuriant a growth as ever I had. C. C. PARK.

PROOF UPON PROOF. Who can longer doubt the excellence of Jayne's Hair Tonic, when everybody says it is the best article in the world to restore the head from baldness and beautify the hair. Read the following from the Rev. John P. Hall, of Ridley Pa:

DR. JAYNE. The Hair Tonic which I obtained at your office has been of service in preventing the falling off of my hair. Indeed there is an appearance of young hair on my head.

Yours, affectionately

J. P. HALL

Astounding Fact.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4, 1845.

I HEREBY certify that when I was about 12 years old, I gradually became deaf in both ears, so that in a few months I found it almost impossible to hear, unless in the very loudest tones of voice. I remained in that situation until the last summer, a period of eighteen years, when I heard of Scarpa's Compound Acoustic Oil. I immediately obtained a bottle, which I used and am happy to say it has acted like a charm, and quite cured me. Any one wishing further information of my case, which I think a remarkable one, will find me by calling at my residence, Concord street, first door above Second street.

MRS. REBECCA BAXTER.

J. W. SHEPPARD, Ag't.

Cincinnati, Jan. 17, 1845. 28

She was Beautiful, and may be again!

The rose bloomed brightly upon a downy cheek,
Venus de Medicis form was not more graceful;
Her laugh echoed back the seraph's joys:
But oh! Calomel; thy touch would make her as ugly as thy haggard legions. [friends:
Why not have spared one so lovely, so dear to
"What pity blooming girl,
That lips so ready for a lover,
Should not beneath their ruby casket cover
One tooth of Pearl!
But like a rose beside the church yard stone,
Be doomed to blush o'er many a mouldering bone!"
No—from Nature's ample bosom grows
A healing balm for all our woes.

Health is every thing; without it we are miserable beings.

Let us see what the Press, Dr. White, and his Patients, and the Public say of the remedies which have gained such flattering and extensive celebrity over the whole Ohio, Mississippi, Missouri and Arkansas Valleys, and wherever they have come within the knowledge and reach of the public—that seem to be so eminently worthy of a trial for all our woes.

We are satisfied that the remedies and means are at hand, that may greatly prolong the duration of human existence. We advise every individual not to disregard his health—perhaps fame—when the best energies of both body and mind are depressed, or weighed down by smouldering Drugs and Diseases within. We do not believe that ONE, of all the Compounds, officinal or otherwise, prepared with all the collected wisdom of the past, in this or any other country, can so soon unload the system of the remains of diseases and deleterious drugs; so clearly and eminently work their own efficiency and growing fame, year after year, at home and abroad—as DR. WHITE'S VEGETABLE ELIXIRS.

Blessed with the gift of a kind providence ourselves, good health, we do not often give a preference of one over the other, to Allapathic, Homoeopathic, Hydropathic, or the "Reformed Practice of Medicine,"—but when all who have witnessed the effects, gratefully appreciate, and far and near, embrace every opportunity to call the attention of their afflicted friends to "Dr. White's Botanic Medicines," we may and ought to join in giving notoriety to medicines which are doing so much good, and which when fully known are esteemed above all others, and above all price.

His Elixirs have performed the most extraordinary cures of any other known medicine, having snatched, as it were, from untimely graves thousands of persons afflicted with Consumption, Colds, Coughs, Inflamation of the Lungs, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhoea, Scrofula, Female Weaknesses, the Secret and Mercurial Diseases, Ague and Fever, Rheumatism, Dropsey, &c; White's Magic Liniment and Vegetable Pills are unequalled for their sanative and curative powers. Let the afflicted try Dr. W.'s medicines, and they will bless the day that they were induced to do so. Thousands of grateful hearts are proclaiming the wonderful cures performed upon them, when every thing else had proved itself futile.

In the treatment of cutaneous diseases, erysipelas, female diseases, dyspepsia, scrofula, asthma, consumptions, and the chronic diseases generally, no physician has a larger circle of patients that will give stronger evidence of remarkable cures. As Mr. Bryant says of himself, seeming like raising some of them from their graves. Dr. White never fails to cure that dreadful disease, the Dropsey, if it is not primarily connected with irreparable vital organs. Indeed, for the vital organs when impaired, no remedies afford such full evidence of their usefulness as these.

Fevers!—Why the instance cannot be found, from the slightest attack to the congestive, and black tongue, where Dr. White has failed, when called on, speedily to break them up. He does not think of permitting a fever to take a settled run of weeks or months, and finally leave the patient a living barometer, capable of anticipating every change and foretelling the size and contents of every cloud floating in the heavens.

Those secret diseases, the awful effects of lewd associates. Prostration of general muscular and nervous debility, innumerable diseases and unaccountable feelings, the fruits of self pollution, will receive the kind, confidential and medical treatment necessary for the restoration of the body and morals of such youths and adults.

It is not uncommon where calomel has remained in the system with disease, for years, that a few bottles of Dr. White's Vegetable Elixirs have thrown them off, through the pores of the skin, in such quantities as to "color the under clothes as yellow as saffron, accompanied by an offensive smell," and always succeeded by a freshness and strength enjoyed only before attacked by disease, and their case badly managed.

We have the evidence of these safe, but powerful effects, and the inestimable value of Dr. White's remedies, in the following Communication from a professional gentleman of this city, whose veracity, no one who knows him, will for one instant doubt.

DR. J. WHITE:

Dear Sir:—In the year 1837 and 1838, while operating as a surveyor in a new country, I was much afflicted with bilious fever, and in consequence took a large amount of different medicines, with the hope of effecting a cure, but found no permanent relief till I retired to a country less afflicted with billious disease. I then got rid of the fever But there still remained in my system the dregs, either of the disease or of the medicines I had taken; which appeared to me to clog the motion of the muscles, and prevent the activity with which they formerly acted. A fact I could discover in most kinds of athletic exercise.

This continued till the summer of 1841, when I got hold of a bottle of your Elixir, which I took according to the directions accompanying the bottle, and in a short time experienced an emission of unpleasant matter from the pores of the skin. My shirts became exceedingly yellow, and in the course of one or two days, would smell very disagreeable; so much so that my wife insisted "that I must quit using the Elixir."—However, I continued its use for about three or four weeks, when I found the emissions less offensive, and consequently quit using it. Since then I have been very hardy, and I think I am now entirely free from the foreign matter which appeared to have been lodged in my system.

Respectfully yours, &c., DAVID QUINN.

Cincinnati, Dec 30, 1845.

Mr. Bryant, a member of the Society of Friends, and Mr. Linton, highly respectable citizens of Cincinnati, write as follows concerning Dr. White's Family Medicines.

"I have been afflicted for ten or twelve years, with shortness of breath, poor appetite, loss of flesh, great prostration, and general derangement of the muscular and nervous system. A friend who used them with great success, advised me to procure Dr. White's Vegetable Elixir—I did so, and it acted like a charm, really seeming like raising one from the grave, producing health, strength, elasticity of frame and buoyancy of feeling, and was more general and pervading in its good effects than any compound of the whole Materia Medica with which I have been acquainted. I keep it constantly on hand, and if my wife, my children, or myself are unwell, we take a portion of this agreeable compound, and go about our business. I have purchased a number of bottles of Dr. White's Elixirs, and given them to the afflicted poor, who can also testify to their healing and soothing virtues, and knowing the efficacy of Dr. White's Elixirs, Vegetable Pills, Magic Liniment, &c., if I can induce the afflicted to try them, my confidence in the benefits they will derive, will be ample compensation to me for any demand such persons may make on my time by calling on me for information, at my residence, corner of Franklin and Sycamore streets; and I do not hazard my reputation in assuring the public that, when the sanative and curative effects of these remedies are fully known, they will be esteemed above all others and above all price. D. B. BRYANT.

Cincinnati, Nov. 28, 1843.

Remedies that are so universally well spoken of wherever they are known—that furnish such incontestible, living and irresistible evidence of their superior efficacy, cannot be neglected by the sick who would live to enjoy life—live to be useful to themselves, to their friends and to society. We speak with confidence, because we know that these remedies will bear the test—confident as that we have our being—that their virtues will be written upon the tablet of many a glad heart, when the quack nostrums of the day are forgotten.

Sold by Dr. J. White, with other Botanic Medicines, at his Botanic Dispensary in the brick building next to North West corner of Sixth and Main Streets, on Sixth, opposite the Galt House.

DEAFNESS CURED.

SCARPA'S ACOUSTIC OIL, for the cure of Deafness, pains, and the discharge of matter from the ears; also, all those disagreeable noises, like the buzzing of insects, falling of waters, whizzing steam, &c., which are symptoms of approaching deafness and also generally attendant with that disease.

Read the following extraordinary cure; if any have had doubts they may now dismiss them, and the most credulous may consider deafness curable. Numerous cases of cures, and many of them very remarkable, by the use of "Scarpa's Oil" have been published—but this caps the climax. Young or old, you may yet recover your hearing.

A lady in Smithfield Pa., now about 80 years of age, had been gradually getting deaf for more than 40 years, so that it was next to impossible to make her hear conversation in the loudest tone of voice. Last winter she was induced to try "Scarpa's Oil for deafness." It is only necessary to add, that she has used two bottles, and that her hearing is perfectly restored: she is cured. This valuable oil is prepared by D. B. Bell, and is sold on agency by Dr. D. Jayne 135 Broadway.

Price $2 per bottle.

THE BEST, and CHEAPEST,
AND
MOST UNIFORM SERIES
SCHOOL BOOKS
EVER PUBLISHED.

To those engaged in the important, but arduous task of instructing youth, McGUFFEY'S ECLECTIC READERS, NOS. ONE, TWO, THREE AND FOUR, are now presented, thoroughly revised, and greatly enlarged, with many important improvements They are now in a permanent stereotype form, NO FURTHER ALTERATIONS being intended.

Prof. McGuffey's enthusiastic devotion to the cause of Education, his fine taste and discriminating mind, and his practical experience as an instructor, render him peculiarly fitted for the department of authorship, to which he has given his attention. The suggestions of intelligent teachers who had used the former editions of the series, and the valuable aid afforded him in the revision by an experienced educator, have also furnished him with unusual facilities for advantageously revising and enlarging these works.

In this series, comprising as it does, a careful selection of instructive, entertaining and moral matter, progressively arranged, and graduated with reference to the capacity of the pupil, Prof. McGuffey has afforded to parents and teachers, a most thorough, complete, and efficient auxiliary in the education of youth. Its extensive use has been sufficient for the development and just appreciation of its many excellencies. The result is, that intelligent teachers pronounce it the most complete series now before the public.

The intrinsic merit of Prof. McGuffey's Eclectic Readers, having gained for them an unparalleled and rapidly increasing circulation, the publisher is enabled, notwithstanding the heavy expenditure in their revision and enlargement, to manufacture them in the neatest and most durable manner, while they are now furnished at such low prices, that they are the CHEAPEST, as well as the best school reading books extant.

JUST PUBLISHED,

McGUFFEY'S RHETORICAL GUIDE; or Fifth Reader, of the Eclectic Series—480 pages, 12mo; containing copious and minute rules, examples and exercises in articulation, inflection, emphasis, accent, quantity, rhetorical pause, modulation, expression, reading of poetry, rhetorical dialogue, gesture, and their collateral subjects, to which are added a great variety of elegant reading lessons, (about one half prose and half poetry,) selected from the most classic writers; furnishing entertaining and instructive specimens of various styles of composition. This work has been prepared with very great care, and with reference to making it a useful, practical, and standard book; and the publisher confidently hopes, that the Rhetorical Guide of Mr. McGuffey is well adapted to supply the wants of classes in rhetorical reading in our Academies, High Schools and Colleges.

McGUFFEY'S ECLECTIC READERS are printed and published at 56, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio, by

W. B. SMITH AND CO.
School Book Publishers.
