POETICAL:

From the Democratic Review for December. THE LUMBERMAN. BY J. G. WHITTIER.

Comrades! round our woodland quarters Sad-voiced Autumn grieves. Thickly down these swelling waters Float his fallen leaves. Through the tall and naked timber, Column-like and old. Gleam the sunsets of November

With their skies of gold. O'er us, the South-land heading Streams the gray wild-goose; On the night-frost sounds the treading Of the stately moose.
Fast the streams with ice are closing, Colder grows the sky

Shall our log-piles lie. When, with sounds of smothered thunder, On some night of rain. Lake and river break asunder Winter's weakened chain, Down the wild March-flood shall bear them

To the saw-mill's wheel. Or where Steam, the slave shall tear them With his teeth of steel. Be it star-light, be it moon-light, In these vales below,
When the earliest beam of sunlight Streaks the mountain's snow,

Crisos the hoar-frost keen and early Lo our hurrying feet, . And the forest echoes clearly All our blows repeat. When the chrystal Ambijeji's Stretches broad and clear;

And Millnoket's pine-black ridges Hide the browsing deer; Where through lakes and wide morasses, Or through rocky walls, Swift and strong Penobscot passes, White with foamy falls.

Where, through clouds, are glimpses given Of Katahdin's sides,-Rock and forest piled to heaven Corne and plowed by slides! Far below the Indian trapping La the sunshine warm: Far above the snow-cloud wrapping Half the peak in storm!

Where are mossy carpets better Than the Persian weaves, And, than Eastern perfumes, sweeter Seen the fading leaves; And a music wild and solemn From the pine tree's height, Rolls its vast and sea-like volume On the wind of night:

Make we here our camp of Winter; And through sleet an benow Pitchy knot and beechen splinter On our hearth shall blow: Here, with Mirth to lighten Duty, We shall lack alone Woman, with her smile of beauty And her gentle tone.

But, her hearth is brighter burning For our work to-day. And her welcome at returning Shall our loss repay.
Strike then, contrades!—Trade is waiting On our ragged toil, Far ships waiting for the freighting Of our woodland spoil!

Ships, whose traffics ink those highlands Bleak and Cold of ours With the Citron-planted islands Of a clime of flowers; To our frosts the tribute bringing

Of eternal heats, In our lap of Winter flinging, Tropic fruits and swoots. Cheerly on the axe of labor, Let the sunbeam dance. Better than the flash of sabre

Or the gleum of lance !-Strike!-With every blow is given Freer sun and sky,

-And the long-hid earth to Heaven
Looks with wondering eye.

Loud behind us grow the murmurs Of the age to come— Qlang of smiths, and tread of farmers Bearing harvest home!--Here her virgin-lap with treasures Shall the green earth fill— Waving wheat and golden maize ears Crown each beechen hill.

Keep who will the city's alleys Take the smooth-shorn plain, Give to us the cedarn vallies, Rocks and hills of Maine! In our North-land, wild and woody, Let us still have part-Rugged nurse and mother sturdy Hold us to thy heart!

Oh, our free hearts beat the warmer For the breath of snow, And our tread is all the firmer. For thy rocks below. Freedom, hand in hand with labor, Walketh strong and brave; On the forehead of his neighbor No man writeth, Slave!

Brother looks on equal brother, Manhood looks on men,-Be thy future, oh our Mother, As thy past bath been— Heavenward, like thy mountain-guardians,

With their star-crowns decked,—And thy watchword, like Katahdin's Cloud-swept pine, "ERECT!"

"A ship?" "No sir, I believe a schooner, but I can't nake her out."

"Steward, hand up my glass." The day had scarcely dawned, and by the grave and uncertain light, unassisted by the glass, I could only make out an object, but the moment I put my telescope to her, I saw she was a schooner with raking masts, standing to the west ward with a course sail set. ing to the westward, with a square sail set. We were heading south, close hauled, with a light air from the eastward, momentarily expecting the Trade Winds. As the day dawned more perfectly, and we were perceived by the stranger, his square sail came in and he hauled his wind with such celebrity, that I did not hesitate to pronounce him a slaver or in blue waters. "Call all hands, Mr. Tompkins; hoist our colors.

"Ay, ay, sir."

The stranger showed Portuguese colors in reply to ours. This did not relieve the anxiety which had seized on me the moment I had a fair view of the schooner, for that nation was still actively engaged in the slave trade, and we were just in the track of outward bound vessels to the coast of Africa and the Cape de Verd Islands, also where they often touch to refresh and refit. Our crew consisting of only ten men, besides officers, cook and steward were soon mustered aft.

"I have called you my boys," said I, "to state my intentious in regard to that vessel to leeward, which I suspect to be a rogue.-We will prepare for as stout a resistance as possible. If he is honest, I shall see by your actions which of you I can really depend upon, and there will be nothing lost, and if a rogue, we must take it for granted that, if we give up like cowards, we shall have our throats cut; and as this is to be our fate whether we resist or not if he boards us, let us make up our minds to sell our lives as dearly as possible; and remember, men, one man devoted to a good cause is able to beat off a dozen engaged in robbery and murder." They gave a simultaneous shout of approbation in good spirits. It was now broad day-light, and we could plainly perceive that the stranger gained to windward, though he dropped astern a little. rendering it somewhat doubtful whether he was superior to us in sailing. Our bonny bark was reputed a first rate sailer on the wind in her best trim; but she was pretty deeply laden with a full cargo of cotton bale goods, and about one hundred thousand dollars in specie, and it could not be supposed that we could sail with a clipper schooner on the wind or in any other way. Our ship's armament consisted of two six pounders, twelve muskets, and the same number of my private armament consisted of a good rifle, a large ducking-gun, a double barrelled Joe Manton, a pair of duelling pistols capable of discharging six balls in as many seconds; and I accounted myself a good shot with all of them.

At eight o'clock it was nearly calm, the chase about two miles on the lee quarter, and leading directly for us.

Mr. Tompkins was a six footer, a real down east Yankee, who had been mate of the Ark, for all I knew, and was equal to any man in that capacity, although he might be taken for twenty years of age, if seen going aloft; there were people who had known him at least that swer ready, and exacted from all under him the same prompt and strict obedicace that he paid to his superior officer. The second mate, cation, looking forward to promotion, and promising to do honor to himself as a commander after a few years more experience.-My craw were all acute young men, and the coor (or Doctor, as he was called) was a real specimen of a first-rate runaway Virginia slave; he could cook as well as he could fid dle, and on Saturday night he would amuse all hands by a tale of a 'possum hunt or a deer drive. Having now described our crew, our vessel, and all we knew of the stranger, I will hasten to put the patient reader in possession of facts for which he is anxiously looking. My orders were as follows, and they were obeyed in as short a time as I shall take to write them:

"Mr. Tompkins loaded the small arms, one ball and four buckshot in each; look to the flints, also load the great guns with round and cannister." "Ay, ay, sir."

"Doctor, put two iron bolts in the fire, and keep them red hot, and fill your coppers with boiling water."
"Mr. Turner, muster all the hats and pea-jackets, and stick one on each handspike near about the ports; it will make them think that we are well manned; and trice up all the ports, sir, and put a log of wood out of each, and g ve them a dab of black paint." "Mr. Tompkins, send old Brown to the

These arrangements being completed, I went down below and loaded my arms, and on examining the Doctor, Found that he was quite familiar with that instrument of death, the rifle; I accordingly gave him my flask him I should call upon him to load for me when the time came.

"Oh, neber fear, Massa—gib us breeze and him not catch us so easy," said he, grinning from ear to ear, and whetting his long knife on a stone.

I put a ball and four slugs into my double barrel, and a handful of buckshot into my barrel, and a bandful of puckshot into my uducker, and a quant in sufficit of balls into the pistols. I had scarcely made these arrangements when Tompkins called—

'He's sweeping his bow off, sir, and I reckon he's going to slap 'Long Tom' into I jumped on deck, and, as it was now dead calm, it was too evident this was his inten- a shot, sir."

shouted I. All obeyed except Tompkins, and, when I give the word, touch her quick! go it good full." stant a heavy shot whistled through our shot and struck the water about two thirds of that we saw no more of the priate, and made and saw that he had not the same flag flying. "Tompkins, what is that at the peak?" now give it to him!"

"It looks, sir, like a red shirt with the Doctor's head in it, and a couple of bones rigged across his chin."

Sure enough, it was a red flag, with a black death's head and marrow-bones pointed on it. At this crisis the chase was only a mile I cannot say that I felt relieved at these symptoms; yet my mind was made up that we were lost, and it remained only for us to afraid to yaw his vessel enough to bring the is not expected to interest any except nautical men, being too full of technicalities to amuse Providence to save not if it would no doubt kill his wind in accompliate the degree and as he was the general reader, and too imperfect to claim Providence to save us; if it remained calm, would bore us through with his long gun; side of us long before night.

if it breezed up, he could outsail us. "Mr. Tompkins, keep an eye-to him, and let me know of any movement. Mr. Tur-ner, bend on the weather studding sails, all does him any harm." ready to run ou; perhaps we can outsail him "All ready, sir."
"Stand by, Doctor, and when I give the off the wind when the breeze comes."

This order was scarcely obeyed, when Tompkins reported-They are getting a tackriggin, sir, lo hoist out their launch and board us, by heavens!'
. "I like that, Mr. Tompkins, for the ras-cally captain and half his crew will come in her, certain of an easy prey; but if my aim don't fail me, few of that boat's crew will return, be they more or less. Mr. Turner, hoist those two guas up on the poop at once, for if we want them, at all, it will be over the stern. Are you a good shot, Mr. Tompkins?"

There was no occasion to call the people aft to give my orders, for they kins, with a smile. were coll cted round the captain with anxions faces and blanched cheeks.

"If they succed in getting alongside, boysr" said I, "we will retreat with our arms to the cabin, and let them board us, and through the windows and cabin door we may clear the decks; if not. I shall reserve my last pistol for the powder magazine, which is at hand, and we will all go together, and disap-point the rascals. "But I trust it will not be necessary to ome to that. Nail down the fore-scattle, Mr. Turner .- If they get alongside, mind every one retreat to the cabin, or die like a dog on deck, if he pleases."

"There they shoot, sir, and pull ahead as if after a whale," said the mate; "and here come a little breeze too-perhaps it will strike us before the villains get near enough.

"They are in the range of the rifle sir." "No, sir, wait until they get near enough to be sure of the leader-within a hundred There she breezes, thank God! "Good full," Brown, and nothing off. We have the breeze before the schooner, but it is very light yet, and the launch gains fast, the rate he gained before?" Now, Doctor, stand by, mind you ram the balls home, be cool, never mind, the patches. Stand by, Tompkins, aim at the group in the the after part of the boat. "Put it into them sir-we have not lost a ball yet. Give me the rifle, Doctor." "Yes, sir, she is ready. I spit on the bait for luck."

This discharge caused them, with the intime as chief mate. He always obeyed or- creased breeze, to lay on their oars an inders promptly, never failed to have an an- stant, and then pull round for the schooner; they had only six oars out.

"Three cheers, my lads, and fire as long as you can reach them. There, the schooner Mr. Turner, was a young man of good edu begins to feel the breeze. Mr. Turner, run up the weather studding sails-keep her off two points, for he must pick up his boat. There, she breezes, thank Heaven! steady Mr. Brown, steady?" "Steady, sir."

"Keep her straight, for your life. Steward give the lads a glass of grog at once." By the time the schooner had picked up her boat and hoisted her on board, we had gained a mile or two, and we were now going eight or nine knots with a free wind.
'Watch her chase, Tompkins; let me know if she gains on us.", "Ay, ay, sir."

"Mr. Turner, we are a little by the stern; carry everything portable chock forward-carpenters chest, harness; roll those two after casks forward—be lively, sir Swab-these guns out, Doctor, we'll have another dah at them yet, I fear, for he sails like a every thing that he would, no doubt, have brought his quadrant on deck and observed for the sun, if it had been noon, and I had not interferred. He was as cool as possible, and his conduct seemed to put nerve into the men.

"He gains fast, sir; I can see the red cap on the rascal at the helm—let me give him

A spontaneous cheer from our crew seem ed to assure us of safety. "Give me the glass boy.—They are cutting the wreck away as fast as possible, still determined to overhaul us. Keep off two points, roun! in the weather braces a full, run out that lower studding-sail -- be handy, lads. Watch the rascals, Mr. Tompkins, and let us know if we gain on him."

"Ay, ay, sir." The breeze was now fresh, well on the quarter, and we were sure to gain on him until his top-mast can be replaced, which with a large and active crew, bent on revenge, would cost him but an hour's work.

"She drops, sir, she drops! I can but The pirate's launch was now manned, and just see that nigger's head on the flag; half pulled ten oars at us lustily, while a group of an hour ago I could see the marrow bones." "Very well, sir, let the people get a bite of dinner, for we shall have more work to do "I don't know what more we can do sir, unless we grease the bottom, said Tomp. dear sir, and we will do it the moment we upon us."

Tompkins cut a new quid of tobacco, of that morning, and by that only did he show thrills the soul with solemn and prophetic any sign of anxiety.

"Break open the hatches, saw the rail and bulwarks off abrest them, and tumble up those bales as fast as possible. This idea had evidently never entered into the heads of any of the crew or officers; and the lon faces with which they had seen the pirate gaining on us, were instantly changed to faces of hope. In ten minutes the cook and the second mate had sawed off the rail and bulwarks, the hatches were off, and the bales coming up faster than any ever before came out of her, and overboard. "Look to your trim, Mr. Tompkins, do not take too many from one side. Send boy Jim on the poop to keep an account of the number as they pass by. Over with them, boys, you are now working for your lives."

But no encouragement was necessary, for the men striped to their trousers only, worked "Mr. Tompkins, cut away the stern boat; every little helps—let her go, sir, at once that's it, these large bales will oblige him to steer wild or to run against them.' We continued this work for nearly an hour, before we began perceptibly to gain on the schooner. But by four o'clock he had dropped more than a mile; yet to make sure, we did not abate our exertions until five o'clock, when four hundred out of a thousand bales had been thrown over. During the operation I could hardly refrain from laughing at the femarks which escaped from the men after we began to gain.

"I wish my old woman had a bale of that," said the Doctor. As soon as the pirate discovered that we were gaining, he gave as several shots from his Long Tom, but the distance was too great, and by sunset he was hull down from the poop; a few minutes after he hauled in his square sail and studding-sails, and rounded to; and when last seen, was very busy in picking up the bale goods, which no doubt would come in play, though not quite so acceptable to the sound have been sweetened with blood. At dusk, we could but just discorn the villian, lying to.

* From the Ladie's Wreath. The Living and the Dead. —Thoughts at Laurel Hill.

BY GEORGE O. BARTLETT.

What a fearful mystery is the heart! wha overwhelming and glorious tides of thought. and feeling; what an ocean of muttered beauty, and swelling waves of sympathy and love flow on beneath this mighty shad ow in which we move, within this gorgeous and fabled day dream of existence. perfect as is this mecanism of our existences we are but feeble children of a fleeting and transient morta ity.-

"Our lives are like an autumn leaf, That trembles in the moon's pale ray"we live-and love-and pass away to an unknown and incomprehensible future.—But Religion stands like a bright angel on the da k borders of the tomb, and death, the universal friend, unlocks the soul's sad and dreary prison-house, and sheds the light of im mortality upon the spirit's wings. I stand amidst the silent city of the dead The bright monuments of grief;-the sculptured memories of departed loved-on s. rise before me in this soft and witching hour of twilight like the remembrance of a vanished dream. The noblest of earth-Kings and "We have yet one principal resort my before us, and even our blessed Saviour has ear sir, and we will do it the moment we set his seal on Calvary's bloody cross, and get something to work upon, if he gains stamped the destiny of man with the sweet hope of life and immortality beyond the Tompkins cut a new quid of tobacco, of grave. Yet it is not alone these external which he had made uncommonly free use witnesses of the grim tyrant's pathway that warning. It is not the emblazoned mausoleum-nor "storied urn of animated dust;" nor the graceful flowers, those lovely em blems of undying affection, springing from the dark receptacles of the dead, and water-"Ay, ay, sir".

It was n w about one o'clock, and the schooner dropping slowly, while the preparation around me the graves of buried hopes;—the agery and its sparkling treasures of thought faded to stillness and gloom;-the bright buds of passion, and the sweet blossoms of love-scattered down and withering in the dust; the soft, angelic purity of infancy, youths opening beauty and the clinging helplessness of agr.

ENGLAND'S HONOR TO JUDGE STORY.-It is not true in all instances, that Europe does not recognize American merit in the departments of Literature and Science. We are pleased to recognize the following tribute in England to the excellence of Judge Story, as a Jurispru-

A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, who notices the fact above aluded to, goes on to give a brief sketch of the present Senate of the United States-

We may still boast of our Senate, though its dignity and ability must suffer a kind of send ripe scholars and finished Statesmen: Senators. But give them time. There are names among them, of which we have not heard till their election was announced. But every man here rises or sinks to his merited The law of the hydrostatic pressure is scarcely more certain. This body must, however, always have its ornaments head and face. Honest John Davis too is here once more in all his integrity and stability; both of them the boast of their friends; and the objects of respect to their magnanimous opponents; they are men of whom Mas sachusetts may justly be proud. And how is her old sister Virginia represented here Respectably, no doubt, by Messrs. Archer and Pennybacker. But the bow of the Archer will probably be unstrung though it has abode in strength, and in him will retire a true gentleman and a high minded Virginian; a man of much exactness of manners, rendered more rigid perhaps by habits of "single blessedness." To him will succeed probably a Democrat; but where now are the Gileses, the Tazwells, the Barbours, the Leighs, the Riveses, and many more of that high order? Pennsylvania as usual sends her sturdy names-men that speak little but vote steadily; -- her Sturgeon and her Cames ron now sustains her dignity. But no Buchanan is there,—a speaker, a thinker and a writer, for whom nature has done much both in voice and manners, though she appears to have made up a singular jumble of opposite qualities in constructing his outer-man: It is difficult to say whether on the whole he is a good looking man or not. The preponderence is in favor of the affirmative.

See his busy, black magnificent eye. Behold the short sharp angle of that pregnant cranium; the multiford wrinkles which acute thinking has cut over the surface of that anxious face. He has come to take his place by the side of McDuffie, whose physical premathrity o crepitude seems to mock the energies of his impetuous mind. Its merchandise, its manufactures, its trades, wield a large capital, and are yearly increasing. It has its flour mills, cotton factories, rolling mill, bagging factory. saw mills, silk factory, and twenty two large to bacco manufactories, all permanently established, and giving employment to hundreds. The Covington rolling mill monufactives 2,500 tons of iron annually, which at $20 per ton, the average value, amounts to $200,000. The consumption of coal in the city is estimated at 500,000 bushthe wheat trade, there is employed a capital $100,000; in that of tobarca and its maunfacture, of between $300,000 and 400,000. The city of Newport likewise exhibits strong

By reference to the very interesting letters of our Frankfort Correspondent, it will be seen that the bill to charter the Covington and Cincinnati Bridge Company, has passed the House. The efforts of Mr. Cox, of Fleming in favor of this measure, entitle him to the warmest thanks of our citizens. Our correspondent expresses his fears of the bill being delayed too long in the Senate. We bope these fears are groundless. It would not, however, be improper, for our citizens to take some steps to secure immediate action in the Senate. Correspondence of the Register.

FRANKFORT, Jan. 18, 1846. DEAR BROWN:-Having heard that indisposi tion was likely to prevent your coming here, I write you some account of what has been going on in the Legislature.

The General Assembly seems to have been doing a great deal of business of one sort or another. On the 9th inst., the committee to whom was referred the Boone contested election reported in favor of Stevens by a majority of votes, and resolutions declaring that Mr. Bra sher was not entitled to a sent as the Represen tative from Boone, and that Mr. Stevens was: the minority of that committee, however, wished to be heard in opposition to the report. It was therefore made the order of the day for the ternal Improvement Committee. This bill provides that the State shall subscribe $100,000 when the private sutscriptions shall amount to $250,000. If this bill can be passed, it will probably be the best thing that can be done for Licking in the present attitude of affairs. It seems to be a hopeless thing to induce the Legislature to go on with the work. The bill provides for the surrender, by the State, of all the work done and materials on hand, to the Company. I think that the passage of this bill would be well enough, but there is some doubt abou its passing with the provision for the $100,000 subscription on the part of the State. In which event I would prefer not doing any thing.

The address of the Covington Convention Committee, has been laid before the Committee of Internal Improvements-150 copies of which was ordered to be printed. I send you one of them. From all that I have been able to collect, I see but little hope for Licking at the presen

Mr. Stevenson on the 10th, obtained leave to bring in a bill to charter the Covington and Cincinnati Bridge Company, which has been prepar ed and laid before the Internal Amprovement Committee, of which Mr. S. is a member. It has passed the committee unanimously, and the friends of the measure hope to have it reported to the House to-morrow. There will probably be but little opposition to its passage. There has been a most interesting debate, since I have been here, in the Legislature, upon a proposition to refer the subject of a Convention, to re-make the Constitution, to the people, at our next annual election. I did not hear all the speeches. I heard Mr. Cox of Fleming, and Mr. Finnell of Nicholas, in favor of the proposition. They have both been descreedly complimented for their efforts. The speeches of Messrs. Waller, Underwood, J. Speed Smith and Gen. Combs, against the proposition, told well against it; for, although they were beaten in the House by six votes-the Senate, most of the members of which heard their speeches, defeated the proposition in a few minutes after it was taken up in that body.

The Boone election was taken up on the 12th and postponed until the next day, in order to allow the minority report to be printed. The minority gave Mr. Brasher the sent by 5 votes .-Mr. Brasher stated in the House that he had not followed his own notions in the matter throughout, and expressed a willingness to resign his pretentions to a seat. The House thought upon a resolution being offered to send them back that it ought not to be done, seeing that according to the evidence, one or the other must be with a view to ascertain whether or no the rescommittee ought to pass. On the 16th, after much speaking &c., the resolutions did pass thereby giving Stevens the Seat. I refer you to the report of the matter in the Common

On yesterday Stevens was qualified, took his seat and resigned, and has gone home to be a

CONGRESS.

On the 14th, in the Senate, Mr. ALLEN, o Onio, in accordance with his notice given previously, rose and submitted a joint resolution declaratory of the principle by which the United States will be governed in regard to the in terposition of the powers of Europe in the political affairs of the independent nations of Ameri-

The resolutions are made up in part of ex racts from Mr. Poly's late message. Mr. CALHOUN opposed their reception, is stern and forcible speech. He was very impressive, and carried the Senate clearly with Mr. ALLEN defended his resolutions, and said that the move was of his own, and on his own responsibility. Mr. CALHOUN inquired why the Senator from Missouri, (Mr. Benton) and the Senator from Michigan, (Mr. Cass) were not consulted on a matter of so much importance? Mr. JARNIGAN, of Tennessee, moved 1 ay the question of reception on the table.

The vote was taken on this important motion and it was carried-yeas 28, noes 23-Messrs CALHOUN, McDUFFIE, HAYWOOD of North Caro ina, and CHALMERS of Mississippi voting in the affirmative.

Mr. CRITTENDEN then introduced a series of resolutions authorizing Mr. Polk to give the notice at such a time as he may, as President of the United States, deem proper-thus allowing Great Britain time and opportunity to make if she chooses, a new proposition.

These resolutions were laid on the table, and will come up in order.

The House was still engaged in discussing the Oregon Resolutions. Mr. Stanton, of Ten. addressed the House on the subject. Very little done on the 15th in the Senate.

In the House, Oregon was discussed-Messrs sko, of Ponnesser, Deninger, of Virginia against Messrs. Dobbin, of N. Carolina, and On the 16th, the Oregon debate was continued

Steam Power.

Mr. Skinner, in the last number of his "Journal of Agriculture," one of the best works of pursuits. In every other department of labor, steam has been made subservient to the most glorious purposes. The immense amount of labor that has been saved by the discovery of afegin-power, is indeed incalculable. And if we judge of the future by the past, the rapid progress of this woundrous power would lead us to believe that still greater changes will soon take place in the industrial world. Speaking of the relative expense of manual or animal labor when compared to inanimate machines, pro-

With inanimate machines, the cost of idle time is less, because they cat nothing; but men woman and children, and all other living and the scrupulous punctuality and exactness by which every respectable and intelligent manuahead or astern. To make every title of labor as productive as the nature of things will possibly admit, whether that labor consist in manual, chief, the incessant study of the manufacturer. See how every pursuit except the American farmer's has been advanced by steam. Some its power, makes it pour fourth its song of exultation-"the song of steam," in which of its prowess in all else but in the business of tains, and distances the winds on the trackless and storiny ocean? But what boon does it bring, what service does it render, directly, to the farmer? It does not for him drain the inexhaustibly rich, but useless marshes of the sea board; neither does it furrow the rootless and stoneless prairies of the West. ment-our people's Republican Governmentwould give a million of dollars for a steam poy that would kill a thousand men at five miles' dis-thance, but not a V for a steam-plow that should add millions to national wealth and population. That would be against the Constitution!! But hear how steam boasts of its contributions t other interests -- even the Printer's:

In the darksome denths of the fathomless mine My tireless arm doth play, Where the rocks never saw the sun decline, Or the dawn of the gloridas day,

I bring earth's glittering jewels up From the hidden cave below, And I make the fountain's granite cop With a crystal gush overflow.

I blow the bellows, I forge the steel

In all the shops of trade; I hammer the ore and turn the wheel Where my arms of strength are made; I manage the furnace, the mill, the mint, I carry. I spin, I weave; And all my doings I put into print

On every Safurday eye." We would here beg leave to inform Mr Skiner that the "man who, inspired by a contemplation of the uses of steam and its power," makes it pour forth its "song of exultation," is G. W. Cutter Esq., of this city-a man of extraordinary poetic power, who has given proof of H. Crawford, his fine genius in many other productions, bethe consequences, is the best way and the only sides the "Song of Steam." His "Press," "God Coalman, W. P. constitutional way of preventing the attempt and Liberty," and many other poems, which we might mention, justly entitle him to rank Crute, A. B. among the first poets of America. And we feel Casteel, N no little pride in the fact that Mr. Cutter is a western man, and has written all these poems

> With Mr. Skinner we hope that steam will soon be brought to the aid of the farmer. Mr Cutter very clearly sees, in prophetic vision, this great event, when he makes steam sing,

And soon I intend you may "go and play,"
While I manage the world myself."

Light's Quick Yeast. FRES.1 supply of this fuel popular ticle, received and for sale by A. L. & T. GREER, Covington, Jan. 17, 1845.

TO HOUSEKEEPER'S. has been ascertained by Chemical amaly sis, that in 15,142 parls of Brewer's Yeast here exists but 15 parts of Carbonic Acid Gas, this becomes disengaged from the Yeast by gentle heat, and is retained by the dough, which causes the rising of the Bread. It is easily seen what a small propor ion of leaven there is in any quantity of Yeast-only about the housanth part, the balance being of no advane whalever

LIGHT'S QUICK YEAST is exactly the everse of this. The larger quantity being the larger the smaller the inert principle. The money will be refused in every case where it does not give satisfaction, if used according to the directions.

PRIMELY WARNING! TO THOSE PREDISPOSED TO CONSUMPTION!! The weekly records of Death and the vast amount that die of Consumption, should convince all, that no time should be lost in procur ing something to arrest the Hydra headed monster in due season, before it takes hold of the I pre tender membranes of the Lungs, and causes them to disease. This timely caution may be the means of sparing many from the shadows of the Grave, and placing within their reach a Remedy that Consumption; or Going into a Decline. Cure follows Cure, by the use of Dr. Dancan's Expectorant Remedy.

R. WM. P. PETERS, Richmond, India na, was taken with a bad Cold last spring which seated upon his lungs, at length cavities and ulcers formed, his Physician used every thing that he thought of, but to no effect; he informed him that he could not be cured, that nothing more could be done; in the mean time, a friend of his, Mr. Howell, induced him to send to David P. Hollaway, who is agent in that place, for the medicine, which he did. B fore using two bottles, he found that he was getting better. After using six bottles he became perfectly satisfied that the Medicine was certain to core him as well as ever. He sent for six bottles more, and is happy to state to those afflicted, that he has used 4 of them and became in all respects Hearty, and feels himself entirely eured. He wishes those lines published in the Pubtic Papers, that others afflicted with Consumption may know the virtues of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy, and spare their life. We the undersigned are well acquainted with The Founder and Proprietor of this Institu ion, having been regularly educated to the med cal profession, and been for some time in gener I practice, now confines his attention to the reatment of those private and delicate comdaints for which his opportunities and expernce peculiarly qualify him Eleven Years as iduously devoted to the study and treatment of these complaints, (during which time he has ha nore practice and has cured more patients, that can ever fall to the lot of any private practition er,) amply qualifies him to offer assurances of speedy, permanent and satisfactory care to all afflicted with Gonorhea, Sychilis, Mercurial Disease, Gleet, Structure, Seminal Weakness.

Whites, and all diseases arising therefrom . Dr. Brown would inform those afflicted wit Gonheas, w ich have become chronic by time r aggravated by the use of any of the commo nostrums of the day that their complaints can be radically and thoroughly cured, he having giv en his careful attention to the treatment of suc cases, and succeeded in hundreds of instances in curing persons of inflomation of the neck of the bladder, seminal losses, and partial or total prostration of the virile powers, which often re sult from these cases, where others have consigned them to hopeless despair. He particularly invites such as have been long and unsuccessful ly treated by others, to consult him, when ever satisfaction will be given them, and their cases treated in a careful, thorough and intelligent manner, pointed out by long experience, study and investigation, which it is impossible for thos engaged in general practice of medicine to give

Dr. Brown is the only regularly educated surgeon in Cincinnati, who gives his whole attention to these complaints. His diplomas and certificales can be seen at his office.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4, 1845. HEREBY certify that when I was about 12 years old, I gradually became deaf in both ears, so that in a few months I found it almost impossible to hear, unless in the very loudest tones of voice. I remained in that situation untill last summer, a period of eighteen years, when I heard of Scarpa's Compound Acoustic Oil. I immediately obtained a bottle, which I used and am happy to say it has acted like used and am nappy to say it has acted like anagic, and quite cured me. Cincinnati, Nov. 29, 1843. Messrs. Editors:-To do goo I to the afflicted and to render justice to Dr. White for a cure so complicated and bad as mine was, is my apology lor asking you to publish the following:-I had been afflicted for five years with fevers, ague and lever, spinal effections, scrofula, colds, and coughs, and other distressing derangements f my saystem which were carrying me rapidly to the last stage of consumption, the most of which time I was under the care and attendance of the best physicians in Portsmouth, in this State, all of whom finally gave me up, and pro-nounced me incurable. Last Spring I came to this city with the lingering hope of obtaining relief from the Medical Faculty here, but, after the lapse of four or five months and at cost of two hundred dollars, with no better results than those at Portsmooth, and my physicians here, also, having pronounced my case hopeless. I was ad having pronounced my case hopeless. I was ad vised by my friends to call on Dr. White; I Managers Office, Covington, hy. and advice, to the amount of five dollars and twenty five cents, through the goodness of Providence, have restored me to health; and I assure the distressed and despairing that if afficied and reduced as I was before using Dr. White s nedicines, and I had wealth, I would give it ail for the relief I have obtained from their use The respectable families who have kindly, stood by me in my afflictions, in this city, can testify the foregoing facts, to whom and to me Dr. White authorized to refer.

DEAFNESS CURED. SCARPA'S ACOUSTIC OIL, for the cure of Dentness, pains, and the discharge of matter from the ears; also, all those disagreeable noises, like the buzzing of insects, falling o

waters, whizzing steam, &c., which are samp

toms of approaching dealness and also generally attendant with that disease. Read the following extraordinary cure; i any have had doubts they may now dismiss them, and the most credulous may consider deafness as curable. Numerous cases of cures, and many of them very remarkable, by the use of "Scar-na's Oil" have been published—but this caps the climax. Young or old, you may yet recover your hearing. A lady in Smithfield Pa., now about 80 years of age, had been gradually getting deaf for more than 40 years, so that it was next to impossible to make her hear conversation in the loudest. tone of voice. Last winter she was indiced to try "Scarpa's Oil for deafness." It is only neessary to add, that she has used two bottles, and that her hearing is perfectly restored: she This valuable oil is prepared by Dr Bell, and is so'd on agency by Dr. D. MOST UNIFORM SERIES

STANDARD SCHOOL BOOKS

To those engaged in the important, but ardisous task of instructing youth, McGuffey's ECLECTIC READERS, Nos. ONE, Two, THREE AND FOUR, are now presented, thoroughly revised, and greatly enlarged, with many important improvements. They are now in a permanent stereotype form, NO FURTHER ALTERA-TIONS being intended.

Prof. McGuffev's enthusiastic devotion to the cause of Education, his fine taste and discriminating mind, and his practical experience as an instructor, render him peculiarly fitted for the department of authorship, to which he has given his attention. The suggestions of intelligent teachers who had used the former editions of the series, and the valuable aid afforded hins in the revision by an experienced educator, have also furnished him with unusual facilities for advantageously revising and enlarging these

In this series, comprising as it does, a careful selection of instructive, entertaining and moral matter, progressively arranged, and graduated with reference to the capacity of the pupil, Prof. McGuffey has afforded to parents and teachers, a most thorough, complete, and efficient auxiliary in the education of youth. Its extensive use has been sufficient for the development and just appreciation of its many excellencies. The result is, that intelligent teachers pronounce it the most complete series now before the public.

The intrinsic merit of Prof. McGuffey's Eclectic Readers, having gained for them an unparalleled and rapidly increasing circulation, the publisher is enabled, notwithstanding the heavy expenditure in their revision and enlargement, to manufacture them in the neatest and most durable manner, while they are now furnished at such low prices, that they are the CHEAPEST, as well as the best school reading books extant.

JUST PUBLISHED, McGorrer's RHETORICAL GUIDE; or Fifth Reader, of the Eclectic Series -480 pages, 12mo.; containing copious and minute rules, examples and exercises in articulation, inflection, emphasis, accent, quantity, rhetorical pause, modulation, ex pression, reading of poetry, rhetorical dialogue, gesture, and their collateral subjects, to which are added a great variety of elegant reading lessons, (about one half prose and half poetry,) selected from the most classic writers; furnishing entertaining and instructive specimens of various styles of composition. This work has been prepared with very great care, and with reference to making it a useful, practical, and standard book; and the publisher confidently hopes, that the Rhetorical Guide of Mr. McGuffey is well adapted to supply the wants of classes in rhetorical reading in our Academies, High Schools and Colleges. McGUFFEY'S ECLECTIC READERS are printed and published at 56, Main street,

Cincinnati, Ohio, by W. B. SMITH AND CO. School Book Dublishers.
