DR. CARTER hav ing permanently located in the City of Covington Ky., returns thanks to his old friends and customers in this and the several adjoining counties, for their liberal patronage for the last six ears, and by his unceasing application to business, he hopes to merit a continuation of the same. He is prepared to perform all operations relating to dentistry, (surgical or mechanical,) with the best and mos

For the satisfaction of those who have never had an opportunity of testing the neatness and durability of his operations and those who may favor him with their custom, he would state that he has been engaged in the dental profession for more than sixteen years; during which time he has spared neither time nor pains in acquainting himself with all the various improvements has been exclusively spent with three very eminent workmen from the East, for improvemen in the deutal art. From the universal satisfaction that he has heretofore given, he does not hesitate to say that in all available cases, however difficult, he insures success.

THE ERRING. Think gently of the erring, With which the dark temptation came, In some unguarded hour. Ye may not know how earnestly Think gently of the erring, Oh, do not thou forget, However darkly stained by sin, He is thy brother yet. Heir of the self-same heritage; Child of the self-same God; He hath but stumbled on the path,

They struggled, or how well,

Until the hour of weakness came, And sadly thus they fell.

Thou hast in weakness trod. Speak gently to the erring,
For is it not enough.
That innocence and peace have gone, Without thy censure rough? It sure must be a weary lot

That sin crushed heart to bear,

And they who share a happier fate, Their chidings well may spare. Speak kindly to the erring, Thou yet mayest lead them back, With holy words, and tones of love, From misery's thorny track. Forget not thou hast often sinned, And sinful yet must be, Deal gently with the erring one As God hath dealt with thee.

THE DONATION VISIT.

BY N. DEERING. Mrs. Deacon Bolster, so designated to dis-tinguish her from divers other Bolsters in the village of Twaddleton, was in some respects ever, a pattern woman. No house in the whole sheeti village was more free from cobwebs, no pewter exhibited a brighter lustre, no floors were more frequently scoured than Mrs. Bolster'smade in t. c profession—six years of which time in short, as she herself a serted, her mansion was always in pimlico order. From her position in society as the wife of Deacon Bolster, she was aware that much was expected from her, and she was ambitious to be regarded, not only as one of the leading women in the village, but also as one of the most beneficent. But here was a difficulty; her strict notions of economy had with advancing years narrowed into parsimony. Hence it was, that in all the village charitable institutions she was compelled to join, she was the by, as I intend to go early to arrange the more liberal with her advice than with her tables, do place it carefully in the basket." money. Yes, I am con-strained to say that Elder Prout has done more to advance the cause of temperance than all the rest of us united. Moreover, the elder's society were not backward when our own minister was visited; and what would be said if Mrs. Bolster was the only lady that

This last remark had the desired effect.— What would the world say—that is, the world of Twaddleton—if the President of the Dorcas Society should not be one of the foremost in a donation visit. That evening the deacon smoked his pipe in solitude, but it was a solitude sweetened by the noise and bustle of the adjoining kitchen. The rattle of tin pans, Bill's exertions with the pestle, Sylvina's accelerated scuff, and above all, the sharp tones of Mrs. Bolster, evidently in no placid mood, satisfied him that the work which he had so much at the times, and to the conclusion that Nauvoo heart had commenced in earnest. His mind was the true field for missionary labor. In was thus in a state favorable for repose.— Why should he sit up any longer? He didn't, but slipped off quietly to his chamber. He saw it all at a glance, and with a disturbed countenance hastened toward the house. We have said that he was a man of peace; he was so, for after a few steps he wheeled there was such a rush of customers in consequence of the proposed visit, that he found it impossible to dine at home; yet he labored cheerfully, though selling almost at cost, and solaced his humanity by an occasional nibble at the salt fish and cracker. But the customer he was most anxious to see did not make her appearance; that was Mrs. Bolster. Just before the store was closed, how-Bill came in for five yards of cheap

On this occasion, as is customary, the eller and his were considered as guests merely, the reception of the company devolving on Mrs. Greely, while an effective force under Mrs. Bolster did duty in the kitchen. Mrs. Greely was much more at home than Mrs. Prout, whose natural diffidence was much increased by the multitude of her male 'surroundings,' by the consciousness that he dress was hardly spited to her yea.s. Her new gown had three additional breadths, a excrescence called a bishop; but, which, reasoning a posteriori, could have been more aptly termed a pillion. In these she had reluc-tantly been arrayed, and also in a new-frilled cap, which was the work and gift of Mrs. Greely.—The latter had a cousin in Portland in the millinery line, and of course was supposed to be more conversant with the preered the true standard, though in the present instance she was more entitled to credit for her liberality than for taste. The cap was a perfect rainbow in colors, and of such extraordinary magnitude, that Mrs. Prout, albeit a small woman, yet, like the 'virtuous Marcia, towered ahove her sex.' You might ead in her looks, however, as well as in her husband's, that gratitude was the predominant feeling for this timely visit; and as such manifestations always enhance the happiness of their giver, the occupants of the parlor were in the full tide of hilarity. What! you didn't kill the gander?'
Why, deacon, when I carried him into the kitchen by mam's orders, there was but one kitchen by mam's orders, there was but one between the elder and his wife, while Mrs. Greely occupied the other extreme. The the viands, and perceiving the gander direct ly in front of his better half, he gradually retreated till he secured a chair next Mrs. Greely. As soon as the ghosts were seated, suddenly to the right, and moved on what is the elder, at a nod from Mrs. Bolster, protermed a bee line to the store. That day ceeded to ask a blessing. It was an out-there was such a rush of customers in consepronounced 'lengthy' had it been less touchingly beautiful. He thanked Providence that his lot had been cast among those who had shown their faith by their works, and prayed that the individuals there assembled, who had been so liberal from their basket and their store, would be remembered in mercy. 'We read,' said he, that there is that scattereth and yet increaseth. May those who have scattered this evening find it like bread cast upon the waters, and may its return be twenty fold. At this passage the deacon's head gave an involuntary shake, and a slight flush suffused for a moment the countenance of his wife.

The prayer ended, the onslaught on the viands was sudden and vigorous. Major Parsons inserted his fork into a round of beef, the deacon grappled with a turkey, while old Master Sewall described an obtace and ate sparingly
'I suppose, husband, you are recovering the only man in the vicinity of Mrs. Bolster, your appetite for our supper at Elder Prout's; he politely offered to carve the 'green goose' that lay so temptingly before them; but the lady, aware of the labor and dreading the remarks to which the trial might give rise, declined the offer, remarking that he was now a guest, and as she had always carved at her barbarism dispelled. We have no such ex own table, it was no trouble to discharge that duty here. Upon this she attacked the gander with a resolution that deserved success .- Such, however, was the tenacity of its fibre, that her blows for a time fell harmless; and when at last she was enabled to dislodge the wing—the elder preferred the wing-her cheeks and neck reminded one of the peony rather than the rose. 'You must certainly try my stuffing,' she exclaimed, glad to rest for a moment from her arduous labors. Was there ever a man who refused stuffing. Certainly not the el-der, as she extended towards him a tablemass!

beeves of both w exclaimed—"Ladies and gentlemen, only look at the contents of Mrs. Bolster's goose! I think you will agree with me that she is entitled to the first premium for stuffing."

This announcement caused a start equal to that of the electric wire and it was followed by the most uproarious applause. Old Master Sewall, filling the tumbler with cider, proposed as a toast, "Mrs. Bolster's improved seasoning—sage and marjoram, with the addition of the Benton mint drops."

It was received with renewed cheers and a confusion of tongues never exceeded by any similar member. Major Parsons inquired whether this might not be a descendant of the goose that saved Rome. In his opinion

Such a breed would save any city.

Master Sewall, for his part thought the public would have gained if some of them had been cooped up in the Twaddleton Bank. Captain Pease declared that this was the very goose mentioned by Esop that laid the golden egg. 'At what period did Esop flourish?'' demaniled the deacon, preserving the gravity of his countenance, but unable to prevent a twinkle in the corner of his left eye. 'Two thousand years ago,' responded Mrs.

Greely. 'Two thousand!' cried 'Squire Marblewhy, that is actionable at common law. It implies that it is an old goose, and consequently a tough one. Elder Prout, you will find that Bacon's Digest settles that matter. The elder, who was then hard at work in reply; but his looks seemed to say that, if Bacon could digest that wing, he was an exceedingly clever fellow. This conversation was absolute torture to Mrs. Bolster, and she would have sunk under it had not the loss of the half-eagles again occurred to her and thus changed the current of her thoughts. The reflections caused such a heartfelt pang, that she leaned back and for a while was apparently unconscious of her situation. But the lavish en-comiums of her friends recalled her to herself, and perceiving that trough she had lost in gold she had gained in reputation, she endeavored to assume an air of cheerfulness, and begged they would not allude to such a trifle. It may easily be imagined that a supper so auspiciously commenced would be joyous to the close. It was so, and when they separated, of all those who wended their way homeward there was but one couple who manifested aught like gravity of deportment. During the walk Mrs. Bolster hardly spoke. The deacon, on the other hand, was unusually talkative, but disconcerted withal. The affair with the half-ea les was a trick that Mrs. Bolster would not be likely to forgive, and he anticipated a curtain lecture. To his surprise she did not allude to it, but it was the engressing topic by the next day all over Twaddleton, was equally well known on plantation number five, sixth range, and at last reached with additions the settlement at Bear's mill-pond. CINCINNATI HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

SIR:-The Executive Council of the "CIN-CINNATI HISTORICAL SOCIETY" have instruct d me to address you concerning the objects of its organization. You will, therefore, excuse this intrusion on your attention, when informed, that no hope of private emolument or selfish gratification, led to the formation of this institution, or induces its officers to undertake the duties it imposes, and devote their time in promoting its interest. This Society was established for the purpose of collecting and preserving in one place, and in a permament form the fragments of the early history of the Great West that are now scattered throughout her broad and magnificent region and exposed to oblivion by the death of the aged, who have facts still in remembrance; the forgetfulness of the young who have traditions of facts but feel not the importance of keeping them in recollection, and by changes constantly taking place that tend to the destruction of such documents as may be of essential service. Such an object cannot fail to receive the hearty response of every person who looks back upon what we have been, and forward to the glorious pros-pect before us. This Great Valley possesses a fruitfulness of Soil. grandeur of Scenery, and every natural advantage unsurpassed by any portion of the Earth, and is destined to be the residence of many millions of people enjoying abundance of physical comforts, and the riches of true mental development. shall pass away, but generations will come after us; they will behold, from the great Gulf on the South, to the unequalled Lakes on the North, one sublime spectacle of human happiness: and while kindled with pleasurable emotions by the scene, will anxiously enquire for the history of their ancestors, and the toils, privations, sufferings, dauntless energy and neroic courage that laid the foundation of this splendid structure of civilization, inteligence and felicity. Shall they ask in vain? Shall they reproach us for our slothfulness in permitting the data for an ample history to pass into oblivion? Let us, then, improve the opportunity now presented for discharging our duty to them. The trouble is but little, and the pleasure of the pursuit will be more than an adequate remuneration. We have all heard of Greece and Rome, and know that the sages of their periods of greatness could find only fabulous accounts of their ancestors. Their primitive generations were excusable for suffering the lamp of their pio-neer history to be extinguished, as letters had not been invented, nor the darkness of case. We have the printing press in all its glory; distant people are brought into a sin-gle neighborhood by the power of steam, and the electric wire that conveys the news with of a perfect history. There must be—there is—we know, an immense amount of historical information hidden from the public eye; and to collect the memorials of the past and present, the Cincinuati Historical Society appeal for aid to all, and to you personally to assist in col lecting them, that justice may be done to the rapidly flocking in from all quarters. How many had crossed the river could not he told, though it seems but reasonable to presume that a large part of their forces will be brought into requisition to dispute the march of Geni TAYLOR. They could not but see the impor-tance of cutting him off, and would doubtless employ all their advantages of local knowledge, skill in horsemanship, and all their acknowledged resources of stratagem to accomplish their object. Gen Taylor anticipated a formidable and desperate opposition to his march, but determined to accomplish it or perish. It seems, therefore, every way reasonable to suppose that a decisive and bloody battle was fought on the 7th instant. and we wait with almost poinful anxiety to hear the result by the next arrival.

War Feeling in our City.

Our city for the last week has been a scene o excitement. The news from the Army thrilled through the bosom of every citizen. Never have we witnessed so much enthusiasm, such an outten to the patriotic addresses of our public speakers. To give a full account of the proceedings would fill our entire columns. We cannot do it. We are unable to depict in colours strong enough, in language sufficiently glowing, the manifestation, exhibited at these meetings, on the part of our citizens, of true Kentucky patriotism-that patriotism which never falters, but is only stimulated by the approach

The meeting on Tuesday night, we must pas without an especial notice. On that occasion Maj. C. S. Clarkson, an old veteran of the late war, presented the sword which he bore in the conflicts of the North Western Campaign, to G. W. Cutter Esqr .- who was one of the first to volunteer his services to march to the field of battle, and who has since been elected Captain of the Kenton Rangers. Maj. Clarkson on presenting this sword to the gallant Captain of the Rangers, delivered a beautiful and patriotic address, which was listened to with the deepest interest, and responded to by the most enthusiastic cheers of the immense crowd that had as sembled to witness the ceremony. Mr. Cutter after receiving the sword responded to the remarks of Maj. Clarkson, returning his thanks for the honor conferred upon him, and pledging Spain, Mr. Cutter called forth-loud and repeated cheering. It was truly a noble burst of patriotism. uttered in language, glowing and elequent. formed in this city, and their ranks are rapidly being filled. The Kenton Rangers, Capt. Cutter. have already reported themselves to the Governor, as prepared for service. The Riflemen Capt. Wolf, and the Artillery Company, Capt. Joiner, are also ready to march to the field of action. This speaks well for our city. Let all who can, at once follow the example of these patriotic volunteers, join their ranks, and march with them to defend the soil of our common coun-

On the evening of the 9th inst. the steam poat Rob Roy, used, as we learn, formerly in the Tensas river trade, but latterly as harbour boat. took fire at the levee New Orleans, and was burned in a short time to the water's edge.

Preparations in Tennessee.

We find in the Nashville papers a correspondence between the Nashville Blues and Gov. Brown. That company informs the Governor that they will hold themselves in readiness for any emergency that may occur. The Governor does not think their services will be needed in the war is to be terminated on the banks of the Rio Del Norte, but he thinks it will become necessary to invade the heart of Mexico, and in that case. their services will be required.

The War with Mexico.

The Washington Union has an article on this subject, from which we copy the following passages on account of the interest which will be at tached to them as coming from the official journal of the administration.

This is not on our part, a war of agression out to hasten its conclusion and to limit the loss of life and, property, the territory of Mexico must be reached by an Amerciann army, so as pouring of patriotism. Night after night has to dictate those terms which will secure us the city Hall been crowded with citizens, to lis-from future injustice and injury. The temporary possession of the soil of Mexico must decid e fate of our country, and our views should therefore be turned not only to the chastisement of the army of Arista, and the blockade of her ports, but to the bold and speedy occupa tion of her strongholds.

The Mexican population can offer but a slight resistance to the North American race. motley character and physical structure are the surest indications of deleat-for out of sever illions of souls four millions are Indians, and of the remaining three millions, but twelve bundred thousand are whites.

Whilst thus asserting our rights, and yet strictly maintaining our treaty stipulations with Mexico, which survive the commencement of hostilities, we are bound to protect our citi zens on the ocean from the wanton grant of letters of marque and reprisals to foreigners and oreign vessels sailing under the Mexican flag.

Mexico has literally no commercial marine, and her navy is a merely nominal one. She has but two or three ports on the gulf, and no Mexican ves'lswhich can be legitimately converted into privateers. The treaty with Spain itself, as was vessels as piratical, and condemns the offending Spanish seaman to be hung up at the yard arm as a pirate.

Mr. Berrien has shown the proper degree rigilance, by moving yesterday a resolution intructing the Judiciary Committee to enquire whether any, and what legislation is necessar to give effect to the 11th article of the 27th Oc tober, 1795, between the United States and ("by which the subjects of Spain are himself to preserve that proud weapon, which had been so often borne over the field of triumph, of being treated as pirates,) and that they resacred and untarnished. The brief but soul- port by bill or otherwise. Mr Berrien explained thrilling and burningly eloquent response of the necessity of looking into this matter, in consequence of the passage of the bill recognizing the existence of a war with Mexico. the probability that privateers might be fitted out

Another consideration also descrives to be no ted. A vessel purporting to sail under a Mexican flag can scarcely pass into a Mexican port, because it may be blockaded. What, then, will she do with any prizes she may make? She cannot carry the vessel into any other port for conthe prize at sea, without going into an admiralty ourt for adjudication, she acts like a pirate and would be treated as such.

Gallant Exploit.

A gentleman in Newark, N. J. has received a letter from a correspondent at the camp, giving the following details of a gallant capture by a oung man from Newark, Gilbert Dudley, son of a constable in Newark, and aged only nine teen years: Returning two days ago from one or our most advanced pickets, whither he had been sent to convey orders, he came unexpectedly upthemselves in the cool shade, having place their muskets in thoughtless security nearnst a upon the ground and stepped upon it, whil with the other he menaced the lives of his op-They cowered beneath his engle

GEN. SCOTT GOING TO TEXAS. General Scott has been appointed to take command of the ar my of occupation in Texas, with orders to proseed immediately to the scene of war. The army is to consist of thirty thousand men, that num ber to be at once ordered to join the American forces now under Gen. Taylor; the whole being subject to the command of Gen. Scott.

The Mexican War

In connexion with this subject now one of all absorbing interest, we publish a proclamation of Ampudia's addressed to foreigner's in Gen. Taylor's Army.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Mexican Army to the English and Irish under the American General Taylor. Know YE: That the Government of the Uni-

ed States is committing repeated acts of barbarious aggressions against the magnanimous Mexican Nation; that the Government which exists under "the flag of the stars" is unworthy of the designation of Christian. FRANCISCO R. MORENO, Adjt of the Commander-in-Chief. Head Quarters, upon the road to Matamoras, April 2, 1846.

Still Later from the Seat of War!!! The steamer Memphis left New Orleans on the 12th inst., two days after the "Magnolia," which brought the news received here this morning. The Florida brought over official despatches from General Taylor for Government. Col. Whistler came passenger .-The account of the battle differs from that received by the New York via Galveston. The following may be relied upon and considered as almost official: ATTACK UP 'N GEN. TAYLOR'S CAMP.

On the 1st of May the main body of the Army of Occupation marched from the camp on the Rio Grande, leaving as a garrison in the field works opposite Matamoros, the 7th Regiment of Infantry, and two companies of Artillery, commanded by Capt. Lowd and Lieut. Bragg-the Infantry.

On the 2nd the army encamped at Point Isabel. Early in the morning of the third day, a heavy cannonading was heard in the direction of Matamoros, which was during the night, and during the day of Secretary. the 4th.

Our informant assures us that it was understood to be General Taylor's intention to remain at Point Isabel until that post should be perfectly fortified, and a large accession of troops should arrive; but he further gives us every reason to encourage those who may desire to enroll themselves, to believe that Gen. Taylor will lead them at once into active with loud and uninterrupted applouse. service-that it is his firm intention to carry the war into Africa."

CAPT. WALKER'S FIGHT -The account of the loss sustained by Capt. Walker's command of 24 men in their fight on the company to sixty rank and file or more. 28th ult. with a large number of Mexicans, is confirmed. But six of his men were killed; the remainder made their way into Point Isabel.

Col. Hays .- A gentleman who arrived at New Orleans from Galveston on the 11th relates to the editors of the Picayune the following anecdote in regard to this gallant Texas Ranger. Col. Canales, a Mexican chief, at the head of a large body of Cavalry, sent word shown in last evening's Union, treats all such to Col. Hays, then at San Antonio, to the effect that he, Col. Canales, was at the head of 1200 Mexican cavalry upon the Arroyo Colorado, and should be happy to receive there Col. Hays and the Rangers. To this Col. Hays promptly responded y the same messenger that it would give nim pleasure to pay his repects to Col. Canales, and that he would accordingly wait upon him for that purpose with 400 Rangers on Wednesday morning, the 6th instant. Should this interchange of courtesies take place-and we have no reason to doubt it, for Hays is determined to cut his way to Gen. Taylor's camp-we shall assurredly hear of warmer work than any which has yet been reported.

INCREASE OF THE NAVY .- A letter from Washington says:--"The augmentation of the pub-tic defences will not be confined to the Military alone. An order was taken at the last meeting of the committee on naval affairs of the House emnation; and if she undertakes to condemn for the construction of twelve iron steamers and one sixty gun ship of iron. FRANKFORT, Ky., May 17, 1846. WHEREAS, from information this day informally received at this Department, it is believed that the Congress of the U. CONGRESS.

Such is the importance of the news from the Army, that we are compelled to omit, this week, our regular Congressional Summary. The Message of President Polk recommending that 50,000 volunteers be raised, and $10,000,000 of dollars to bear the expenses of the war, and declaring that a state of war now actually exists between this. country and Mexico, has been carried into effect by Congress. Mr. Polk's Proclamation announcing the fact will be found in to day's paper. In the House of Representatives only 14 voted against the War Bill-in the Senate only 2 .- and shall embark for the seat of war. The other proceedings of Congress are not of

An ineffectual attempt was made to reconsider the vote by which the amendment of the House to the Mounted Riflemen bill had been

The Indian Appropriation bill from the House was next considered, and debated for several hours. It was finally ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, with sundry amendments.

The House adjourned at an early hour without having effected anything. The Senate did not set on the 16th.

In the House the bill in relation to the rais ing of a regiment of mounted riflemen, was ta ken up. The House receded by a vote of 96 to 60 from its amendment requiring the officers to be taken from the supernumerary officers of the Army, and the bill was passed.

Covington, May 9, 1846 3m-42 CAN CONSUMPTION BE CURED This question is asked by many anxious souls who, perhaps are in the last stage of the disease, or have some near or valuable friend thus offlicted to this answer, painful as it is to say, that few ever recover. Death cannot be deprived of its prey, when disease has knitted its fatal threads upon the vitals. It is therefore of the utmost importance for all persons who may have a bad Cold, Cough, pain in the breast and side, soreness of the throat, difficulty of raising up the phlegm and matter that accumulates upon the lungs, in the primary stages, and leads to Consumption when not removed. To such as are afflicted, I would recommend them to procure at once a few bottles of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy, which is certain to remove all the first symptoms that often hang so long to the system, and finally destroy life. A RELIEVED SUFFERER. Dr. Duncan has opened a Western Medical Office, 150 Sycamore st., where his medicines

Credit in some particular cases, may be favorably been in use, being composed exclusively blessing, but nine times out of ten, it is a great of those vegetable articles most appreciated and curse. It holds up to the buyer the cards and the dice: it tempts him to play a game of chance it induces him to buy more than he needs, and thereby a dead stock is accumulated; it prevents him from competing with his neighbor who buys with cash: it soon leads him to borrow money at a high interest, and it ends in either his ruin, or the keeping of him poor for life. The cash system, then, is the honest road to wealth. It holds out not the temptation of a rapid fortune, but that which is far better—a gradual increasing business, free from trouble and anxiety, and one which must, with proper industry, lead to wealth and independence. Store on the southwest corner of Sycamor nd Second streets, Cincinnati. Feb. 28, 1845.

Be doomed to blush o'er many a moulderinh No-from Nature's ample bosom grows A healing balm for all our woes.

Health is every thing; without it we are misg erable beings.

Let us see what the Press, Dr. White, and his Patients, and the Public say of the remedies which have gained such flattering and extensive celebrity over the whole Ohio, Mississippi, Mismuri and Arkansas Valleys, and wherever they have come within the knowledge and reach of the public-that seem to be so eminently worthy of trial for all our woes. We are satisfied that the remedies and means are at hand, that may greatly prolong the dura-tion of human existence. We advise every individual not to disregard his health—perhaps fame—when the best energies of both body and mind are depressed, or weighed down by smoul-dering Drugs and Diseases within. We do not believe that one, of all the Compounds, official or otherwise, prepared with all the collected wisedom of the past, in this or any other country, can so soon unload the system of the remains of diseases and deleterious drugs; so clearly and eminently work their own efficiency and growing fame, year after year, at home and abroad—as Dr. White's Vegetable Elixies.

Blessed with the gift of a kind providence ourelves, good health, we do not often give a preference of one over the other, to Allapathic, Ho-mocopathic, Hydropathic, or the "Reformed Practice of Medicine,"—but when all who have vitnessed the effects, gratefully appreciate, and far and near, embrace every opportunity to call the attention of their afflicted friends to "Dr. White's Botanic Medicines," we may and ought to join in giving notoriety to medicines which are doing so much good, and which when fully known are estermed above all others, and above all price. His Elixirs have performed the most extraordinary cures of any other known medicine, having snatched, as it were, from untimely graves thous ands of persons afflicted with Consumptions, Colds, Coughs, Inflamation of the Lungs, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Scrofula, Fe-male Weaknesses, the Secret and Mercurial Diseases, Ague and Fever, Rheumatism, Dropsey, &c; White's Magic Liniment and Vegetable Pills are unequalled for their sanative and curative powers. Let the afflicted try Dr. W.'s medcines, and they will bless the day that they were induced to do so. The usands of grateful hearts are proclaiming the wonderful cures performed upon hem, when every thing else had proved it self futile.

In the treatment of cutaneous diseases, erysipelas, female diseases, dyspepsia, scrofula, asth ma, consumptions, and the chronic diseases gen erally, no physician has a larger circle of patients that will give stronger evidence of remarkable cures. As Mr. Bryant says of himself, seeming like raising some of them from their graves. Dr. White never fails to cure that dreadful disease, the Dropsey, if it is not primarily connected with irreparable vital organs. Indeed, for the vital organs when impaired, no remedies afford such full evidence of their usefulness as these. Fevers!—Why the instance cannot be found, from the slightest attack to the congestive, and black tongue, where Dr. While has failed, when called on, speedily to break them up. He does not think of permitting a fever to take a settled run of weeks or months, and finally leave the patient a living barometer, capable of anticipa-ting every chan e and foretelling the size and ontents of every cloud floating in the heavens Those secret diseases, the awful effects of lewd associates. Prostration and general muscular and nervous debility, the innumerable diseases and unaccountable feelings, the fruits of self pollution, will receive the kind, confidential and medical treatment necessary for the restoration of the body and morals of such youths and It is not ur common where calomel has remain ed in the system with disease, for years, that a few tottles of Dr. White's Vegetable Elixirs have thrown them off, through the pores of the skip, in such quantities as to "color the under clothes as yellow as saffron, accompanied by an offensive smell," and always succeeded by a fresh ness and strength enjoyed only before attacked by disease, and their case badly managed We have the evidence of these safe, but pow-erful effects, and the inestimable value of Dr.

White's remedies, in the following Communica-tion from a professional gentleman of this city, whose veracity, no one who knows him, will for one instant doubt. DR. J. WHITE:

Dear Sir:—In the year 1837 and 1838, while operating as a surveyor in a new country, I was much afflicted with bilious fever, and in consequence took a large amount of different medi-cines, with the hope of effecting a cure, but found no permanent relief till I retired to a country less afflicted with billious disease. I then got rid of the fever. But there still remainmy system the dregs, either of the disease or of the medicines I had taken; which appeared to me to clog the motion of the muscles, and prevent the activity with which they formerly acted. A fact I could discover in most kinds of athletic exercise. This continued till the summer of 1841, when I got hold of a bottle of your Elixir, which I took according to the directions accompanying the bottle, and in a short time experienced an emission of unpleasant matter from the pores of the skin. My shirts became exceedingly yellow, and Mr. Bryant, a member of the Society of Friends, and Mr. Linton, highly respectable citizens of Cincinnati, write as follows concerning Dr. White's Family Medicines.

Respectfully yours, &c., DAVID QUINN. Cincinnati, Dec. 30, 1845.

"I have been afflicted for ten or twelve years, with shortness of breath, poor appetite, loss of ing like raising one from the grave, producin health, strength, elasticity of frame and buoyand cy of feeling, and was more general and pervading in its good effects than any compound of the whole Materia Medica with which I have been acquainted. I keep it constantly on hand, and WE have now on hand a large and well selected assortment of gold and silver watches, and Jewelry, Diamond and other kinds of Bracelets, Pins, Ear Rings and Finger Rings, given them to the afflicted poor, who can also tesgiven them to the anicted poor, who can also les-tify to their bealing and soothing virtues, and knowing the efficacy of Dr. White's Elixirs, Ve-getable Pills, Magic Liniment, &c., if I can in-duce the afflicted to try them, my confidence in the benefits they will derive, will be ample com-pensation to me for any demand such persons may make on my time by calling on me for infor-mation, at my residence, corner of Franklin and Sycamore streets; and I do not hazard my rep-utation in assuring the public that, when the sanative and curative effects of these remedies are fully known, they will be esteemed above all others and above all price. D. B. BRYANT.
