POETICAL.

For the Register. STANZAS. BY C. MARTYN.

Tell me not of glittering prizes, To be won by daring deeds; Every hope that vainly rises,

From a heart deep steep'd in sorrow, Striving furtively to gain For the present, not the morrow, Freedom from most poignant pain.

But the strife is unavailing; For the heart that once is crushed In its youth, by woe prevailing-

By that woe is ever husbed.

Once the heart, that now is lonely, Sad and cold, and growing hopeless, Was by gladsome feelings only.
Nurtured, and knew not distress.

Then so blithe -- so free from anguish-Smoothly moving o'er life's wave; Never turning back to languish, Happ'ly gliding to the grave.

Life of radiance!--sunlit hours-Joy-beams, resting on my course; Not a gloom-cloud ever lowers; Not a grief from any source.

Love was mine-the youthful passion-Gushing, pure and full and strong; Strengthened by the consolation, That my heart was free from wrong.

But a change-sad intervening-Lies between those hours and now; Coldness of that heart is weaning Mine, and shading o'er my brew. June, 1846.

Ludovico Lana. AN ANECDOTE OF MODERN SICILY.

In the summer of 1811, I was travelling in Sicily, and in crossing the island from Gir genti to Palermo, paid a visit to the town of Castrogiovanni, built on the site of the ancient Enna. I was surprised to find how little interest was caused by our arrival, as in most of these classical spots, a host of beggars assail the stranger on one side, as the guides beset him on the other, both eager for prey and for spoils, while the idle and unemployed, forming ninetenths of the population, lounge around to swell the crowd. But along without any interruption, till it arrived

Soon after my establishment with my host, my servant returned from the locands, and congratulated me on my good quarters, more particularly as a very great personage had arrived a short time previous, and who occu pied together with the unfortunate man just condemned, all the thoughts of the innkeeper and his family. I inquired who the great unknown might be, and was told that he was a very fine looking young man, about twentyeight or thirty years of age, in the uniform of an English officer of rank, and attended by two domestics. He had arrived from Palermo; and though from his dress he appeared to be in the English service, yet his accent and dialect were evidently Maltese, which Antimony, Mercury or Opium.

"One of his band has just been arrested and condemned to death, here in Castrogiovanna; and Ludovico is capable of setting fire to the town, and cutting all our throats."

The stranger laughed at the alarm of his informant, and asked when the execution would take place. "The day after to-morrow, no doubt," reolied the host.

"And at what hour?" "Eeight in the morning, excellanza, is the ısual hour."

"I have a great curiosity to see the execuion," observed the officer. "Nothing is easier; your excellanza can re-turn hither from Palermo to-morrow evening, and I will take care to provide a good place for you to witness the execution of this ban-

My servant then went on to narrate the wonder of the host when about to prepare the table for his guest, at learning from the ing to the servants that they carried with them various articles of plate and linen for their master's service, who was not accustomed to the rud furniture of a Sicilian locanda, and sp-

At seven o'clock the judge and other officials took their stations on a platform prepared for them, and were joined soon after by Col-

At eight o'clock the bells again tolled forth, and announced the approach of the victim, who soon made his appearance mounted on an ass, with his face towards the tail, preceded by the executioner, and surrounded by the brothers of Mercy, whose especial duty it is to form a part on such melancholy occasions .- The procession moved slowly father! there sits a gentleman who can save

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAM SHIP HIBERNIA.

TEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE. The steamship Hibernia, Capt. Ryrie, made a very short passage, and arrived at Boston on Monday noon. She left Liverpool on the 19th

The intelligence received by her is of considerable importance. There appears to be an evident desire on the part of Great Britain to settle the Oregon quesion in the most amicable manner. The tone of the notice resolutions, as they passed the Senate, are deemed of a very able character.

The question was incidentally brought before the House of Commons, on the 5th ult., and both Sir Robert Peel and Lord John Russell, referred to it in a very conciliatory manner. It is supposed that positive instructions have come out in the Hibernia to Mr. Packenham, to settle the matter at once, and negotiation will probably be immediately renewed in Washing

The trade in provisions was not very brisk. There was very little doing in grain. The arrival of flour from the United States contin-

The Lendon money market was in a better condition.

The timber trade continued depressed.

The Hibernia brought 54 passengers from Liverpool, landed 9 and took in the same number at Halifax. Among her passengers are Mr. W. Messer, bearer bridespatches from the Court of St James, and Sie Henry and Lady Caldwell.

Looking at one of the greatest nations of the globe, I am happy to find there are symptoms of returning feelings of amity and good will. When I read the speeches of Webster, Calboun and others, I forget all the idle menace wafted from the other side of the Atlantic. We received papers by her from the city of Mexico to the 15th, and from Vera Cruz to the time of her departure. She sailed on the 20th inst. We learn verbally from Capt. might have leaked, and did leak out. The Mississippi and Falmouth had blockaded the port of Vera Cruz. Orders had been received from the city of Mexico, directing all Americans to leave Vera Cruz by the 24th inst. Mr. Dimond, the Consul, was preparing to go on board of one of the U.S. vessels of war. It was generally thought that the American vessels left in port (the barque Louisiana and the brig Helen McLeod) would be seized by the Mexicans. The contractor of supplies for the Ameri-

VERA CRUZ, May 19, 1846. * * * A circular has been issued by the government, stating that all the A-merican Consuls cease immediately from being recognized, and ordering all American to embark or retire into the interior within eight days. The U.S. steamer Mississippi yesterday ordered off a vessel from the port, but she came in during the night; thus proving the port to be blockaded least to national vessels—a step which has materially compromised the American vesafraid that we shall not be allowed to despatch the Thætus.

The Rancheros of Mexico

A writer in the Albany Atlas gives the ollowing description of the Mexican "Rancheres," of which such frequent mention is made in the war reports from the Rio Grande:—This is an appellation derived from their occupation and mode of life, and is common to a similar class of men who subsist on the Pampas of South America .-Half Indian and half Spanish in their extraction gaunt, shrivelled, though muscular in their frames, and dark and swarthy visaged as they are, these men are the Arabs of the American continent. Living half of the time in the saddle, for they are imrivalled horsemen, with lasso in hand they fraverse those vast plains in search of the buffalo and wild herse, who roam over them in countless herds. The killing of these animals, and the preparation and sale of their hides, is their sole means of livelihood; other than occasionally lending a helping hand, to some of the partizans in the civil wars that are being continually waged around them. Their costume generally consists of a pair of tough hide leggins, with sandals of the same material, bound together with leather thongs, over which is a blanket with a hole in the centre, large enough for the head to be thrust out, and which falls not ungracefully over their shoulders, leaving ample room for the play of their arms. Add to this a broad straw sombrero and the lasso hanging ready for use at his girdle and you may have the Ranchero as he appears in the time of peace or in the pursuit of his occupation. Join to this a long lance with a sharp spear head, ornamented with a strip of red bunting, on a horse as savage and unmanageable as himself and his belt plentifully supplied with pistols and knives, and you have the Ranchero as a mem. ber of the troop of banditta, or as a soldier in a body of cavalry. Cowardly as they generally are in the open field, yet in a conflict in the chapparals of Mexico, or in an ambuscade, they are indeed a formidable enemy. Their power of enduring fatigue is almost in-exhaustible, and a scanty meal per diem of jerked beef and plantain suffices them during months. Such are the Rancheros, and under lisciplined control, they would be the best light troops in the world. These are the men who comprise the great bedy of the Mexican cavalry, and they are to the armies of that nation what the Cosacks are to the Russians. ever on the alert, in the pursuit of the foe,

The Kentucky Volunteers.

We have just returned from Louisville, the rendezvous of the Kentucky Volunteers, where the service of the United States. We will venture to say that a finer, more robust and gallant band of men never went forth to do battle for their country. Indeed Kentucky is a noble State, filled with noble men, and brave as noble. They never falter in the hour of peril. They are ever ready to obey the call of their country and shed their blood in her defence. Such men deserve the protection of the public authorities. They should be well provided for, when they enter the public service. Yet we are pained to say they have been treated in a most shameful manner. They are now encamped on the Oakland race-course, near Louisville, without tents, and with scarcely a sufficiency of provisions to sustain life. With no cooking utensils, they are compelled to broil their meat in the fire, by means of sticks, and stand ankle-deep in mud while performing this indispensable duty. They have received no pay, and we believe Government has, as yet, sent no money with which to pay them. It is enough to make one blush to see how those gallant sons of Kentucky are treated-Men, who have never known what it is to want, who have ever been provided with the richest and best the country can afford, compelled to suffer as they have suffered. There can be no excuse for this. We know it is said that the Government, at Washington, did not expect them to rendezvous so soon, and therefore provision has not been made for their comfort. To this we reply, that Government had no right to act upon such a presumption. The war department had no right to call for volun-

Besides, by a high-handed act of usurpation, which we shall shew can be characterized by no other name, the President forbids the State Government to appoint Quarter Masters, or Surgeons or Surgeons' Mates, thus depriving the Volunteers of medical aid, until some court-favorite is sent out from Washington, to "physic" the sick. Now we hold that the State has a right to appoint these officers, and we regret that the Governor of Kentucky has not exercised it. But we shall not now discuss this branch of the question. At another time, and when less pressed with business, we shall consider it in all its bearings.

teers, without preparing to meet their wants, to provide for their comfort.

We have heard the Governor censured for not providing for the Volunteers. The fault lies properly at Washington. Upon the General Government the resbonsibility rests. But while this is true, we hesitate not to say, that in our humble opinion the Governor of Kentucky should have taken the responsibility of furnishing the soldiers with every thing necessary their comfort. And if the General Government had refused to refund the money expended, most willingly would the people of Kentucky have borne the burden. Such a course would have hushed every murmur against the State Government, and placed the Governor in a proud and enviable position ;-- and would have justly entitled him to the gratitude of every true hearted Kentuckian.

But enough for the present. It gives us no pleasure to speak as we have. We regret the necessity that compels us to do so. But we have a duty to perform, which neither fear nor favor can deter us from executing. We believe that the beave volunteers of our State have been maltreated and we shall not hesitate, be the consequences what they may, to vindicate their rights It is but justice to state, that Gen. Wool, on his arrival at Louisville gave orders to have the volunteers supplied with every thing necessary. Still, several days must clapse before the necessary arrangements can be effected.

We cannot but believe that the imbecile and perfidious power, the nation of bravados and ceased. gasconades, will soon cringingly shrink from the rod of chastisement, and with humiliation, humbly crave our forbearance and mercy. How else can it be. Mexico is not in a state of preparation to go to war. She is infinitely inferior to us upon both land and sea. Inferior to us in to report themselves as a regiment to the Presidiscipline, skill, numbers and courage. Inferior to us in military knowledge and accourrements revolutionary movements of some petty, spirit, the puerile officers of state and subvert the impotent government. This being her situation, how is Mexico to wa with us for any length of time? If she could do as she did with Texas, keep up predatory incursions, and carry on the war upon an insigificant scale, it might last for years; but it will not be so; she must fight with all her strength. We will send fifty thousand troops into the heart of her territory; if her soldiers retreat, we will follow them-follow them until they have been driven from their own soil. Curtiss tells a story in his paper of the 11th, about those 'little copper buckets' and a poor devil of a poet who, it appears, thrust some verses into said little copper buckets, in Curtis' absence, had them drawn up to the printing office, and lo! they appeared, very ungracefully of course, upon the face of the Commercial, the following day. Now we want to know, in all seriousness, if the "poet did come it over the editor" or if we are indebted to the very fruitful imagination of friend C. for the story? We want to know, because those verses excited much inquiry and wonder bereabout.

Canada Puzzled.

The Canadian papers are sadly puzzled by the intelligence from the Rio Grande. They had so firmly resolved that the American force was on the point of extermination and had indulged in so much hearty rejoicing at the prespect, that the news of the victory finds them excessively incredulous. The Kingston Chronicle laughs at the notion that 1600 Americans should have repulsed 5000 Mexicans, strongly posted, captured their artillery, and killed and wounded 600, with a loss of but few; and still the account is explicit and apparently true. The Chronicle consoles itself with this comment:--

"In short, the accounts are so con tradictory and improbable, as to give it the character of work writing a Report on the subject of the fiction or at least, of the most egregious exaggeration, sufficient to render it altogether unworthy of belief.17

The blockade of the port of Vera Cruz commenced on the 20th. Fifteen days were allowed to all neutral vessels in port to load and depart By orders from the Mexican Government the American Consul's office was to be closed, and he and all American citizens were to leave by the 26th. On that day the Consul expected to go on board the steam frigate Mississipple. This rigate and the Raritan were at anchor off Vera Cruz on the 25th and the sloop of war Falmouth was lying off the port.
The Louisiana and Helen McLeod got off in

The day they sailed news reached Vera Cruz that Mazatlan and Tepic had pronounced in fa-

The animosity existing against the American has been violently increased by the news of the two actions of the 8th and 9th ult. No one could look upon that phalanx of asble looking men without feeling proud of being an American cifizen. All felt satisfied that those determined, honest, brave-looking men-who had left home and all that renders home dear, to pass months of hardship for the main lenauce of American honor, and to punish the surderers of their countrymen—will spill the less drop of their blood, if need be, in keeping usuallied the glorious stars and stripes. The stamphing Galveston and Jas. L. Day both leave to-day, and will take off the 6th regiment Louisiana Volunteers and as many more as they can chrry. The Telegraph will probably leave to morrow. A. CAN CONSUMPTION BE CURED This question is asked by many anxious souls who, perhaps are in the last stage of the disease, or have some near or valuable friend thus afflicted to this answer, painful as it is to say that few ever recover. Death cannot be de prived of its prey, when disease has knitted its fatal threads upon the vitals. It is therefore of the utmost importance for all persons who may have a bad Cold, Cough, pain in the breast and side, soreness of the throat, difficulty of raising up the phlegm and matter that accumulates upon the lungs, in the primary stages, and leads to on Walnut street, West side, three doors above Consumption when not removed. To such as are afflicted, I would recommend them to pro cure at once a few bottles of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy, which is certain to remove all the first symptoms that often hang so long to the system, and finally destroy life.

Compound Company Business.
The subject of Closing and Re-opening Book Balancing and Adjusting Individual and Part-nership concerns, will be explained and illustra-

In place of the common method of copying after any particular printed work, the pupil is exercised in opening, making the Original Entries, Journalizing, Posting, Balancing, Closing and making out the Balance Sheets of over twenty different sets of Books, containing Entries in every variety of Mercantile Transactions—thus obtaining in a short time a more ex tensive knowledge of the science than could be acquired for years in a Counting House.

COMMERCIAL LETTER-WRITING. Embracing the general particulars of Letter Writing as connected with the different branches of Trade, in concluding the general forms of Invoice, Accounts, Sales, Bills of Exchange, &c.

PRACTICAL PENMANSHIP, Taught in all its variations. In completing the above course, the principals will obligate themselves to make every pupil a good practical penman.

A good hand writing is not only one of the greatest accomplishments, but it is also indispen-sibly necessary to the business man as well as the accountant. An individual however good in accounts, if deficient in writing cannot be onsidered properly qualified to take charge of iset of books. It should then, be an important consideration with every young man in entering an Institution to acquire a knowledge of Cookkeeping, to go where he can also, at the same time be made a ood writer, and thus obtain all, rather than part of these qualifications which are equally ssential to the Bookkeeper.

Reference can be shown from some of the first Business men and Bookkeepers in the city, who have qualified themselves at this Institution. 31-ly Feb. 21, 1846.

From Dr. Baker, Springfield, Washington ounty, Kentucky.

Messrs. Sanford & Park, Springfield, Ky., May 14, 1845. GENTS.—I take this opportunity of informing you of a most remarkable cure performed upon me, by the use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild herry.

In the year of 1840 I was taken with an inflamation of the bowels, which I labored under for six weeks, when I gradually recovered. In the fall of 1841, I was attacked with a severe cold which sented itself on my Lungs; and for the space of three years I was confined to my bed.— I tried all kinds of medicines, and every variety of medical aid without benefit; and thus I wearied along until the winter of 1844, when heard of Wistar's Balsom of Wild Cherry. My friends persuaded me to give it a trial, though I had given up all hopes of recovery, and had prepared myself for the change of anothe world. Through their solicitations I was in world. Infough their solicitations 1 was in duced to make use of the genuine Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. The effect was truly astonishing. After five years affliction, pain and suffering; and after having spent four or five hundred dollars to no purpose, and the best and most respectable physicians had proved unavailing. I was soon restored to entire health by the

I am now enjoying good health, and such is my altered appearance that I am no longer know hen I meet my old acquaintances. I have gained rapidly in weight, and my flesh is firm and solid. I can now eat as much as any person, and my food seems to agree with me. I have eaten more food during the last six month Considering my cure almost a miracle, I deem it necessary for the good of the afflicted, and a duty I owe to the proprietors and my fellow men (who should know where relief may be had) to make this statement public.

Credit in some particular cases, may be blessing, but nine times out of ten, it is a great curse. It holds up to the buyer the cards and he dice: it tempts him to play a game of chance it induces him to buy more than he needs, and thereby a dead stock is accumulated; it prevents him from competing with his neighbor, who buys with cash: it soon leads him to borrow noney at a high interest, and it ends in either nis ruin, or the keeping of him poor for life. The cash system, then, is the honest road to wealth. It holds out not the temptation of a rapid fortune, but that which is far better-a gradual increasing business, free from trouble and anxiety, and one which must, with proper industry, lead to wealth and independence.

She wasBeautiful, and may be again! The rose bloomed brightly upon a downy cheek, Venus de Medicis form was not more graceful; Her laugh echoed back the seraph's joys: But oh! Calomel; thy fouch would make her as ugly as thy haggard legions. [friends! Why not have spared one so lovely, so dear to "What pity blooming girl;

That lips so ready for a lover, Should not beneath their ruby casket cover.
One tooth of Pearl!

But like a rose beside the church yard stone,
Be doomed to blush o'er many a moulderinh bone!" No-from Nature's ample bosom grows A healing balm for all our woes. Health is every thing; without if we are misg erable beings.

Let us see what the Press, Dr. White, and his Patients, and the Public say of the remedies which have gained such flattering and extensive celebrity over the whole Ohio, Mississippi, Missouri and Arkansas Valleys, and wherever they have come within the knowledge and reach of the public—that seem to be so eminently worthy of a trial for all our woes. We are satisfied that the remedies and means: are at hand, that may greatly prolong the dura-tion of human existence. We advise every individual not to disregard his healthfame-when the best energies of both body and mind are depressed, or weighed down by smouldering Drugs and Diseases within. We do not believe that one, of all the Compounds, official K. Glayton pledges his word losen, wholesale, at the same prices that the largest houses in New York are charging. But the terms are cash, for the small profits would not justify credit. Even the richest man's custom is not decided to the control of the past, in this or any other country, can so soon unload the system of the remains of diseases and deleterious drugs; so clearly and eminently work their own efficiency and growing fame, year after year, at home and abroad—as Dr. White's Vegetable Elixirs. Blessed with the gift of a kind providence our-selves, good health, we do not often give a preference of one over the other, to Allapathic, Ho-mocopathic, Hydropathic, or the "Reformed Practice of Medicine,"—but when all who have witnessed the effects, gratefully appreciate, and far and near, embrace every opportunity to call the attention of their afflicted friends to "Dr. White's Botanic Medicines," we may and ought to join in giving notoriety to medicines which are doing so much good, and which when fully known are esteemed above all others, and above

His Elixirs have performed the most extraordinary cures of any other known medicine, having snatched, as it were, from untimely graves thous ands of persons afflicted with Consumptions, ands of persons afflicted with Consumptions, Colds, Coughs, Inflamation of the Lungs, Asthma, Dyspensia, Chronic Diarrhea, Scrofula, Fe-male Weaknesses, the Secret and Mercurial Diseases, Ague and Fever, Rheumatism, Dropsey, &c; White's Magic Liniment and Vegetable Pills are unequalled for their sanative and curative powers. Let the afflicted try Dr. W.'s medicines, and they will bless the day that they were induced to do so. Thousands of grateful hearts

Myself and a boy living with me, have had ve building on the corner of Walnut and Water tried in vain, everything, from the most famed sts., and having fitted it up in superior sty.e, is hopes of relief, and when Dr. White's Vegeta-ble Elixir was recommended to me, I could not but give way to my feelings, and pronounce his too a humbug. On reflection, however, I obtained a bottle, containing three gills, on the condition of no cure no pay—and double pay if it did cure. This one bottle cured the boy and myself, and I have reasons for believing that its equal cannot be found in the United Statesand therefore, in as strong terms as friend Bryant has, do I also urge the afflicted to try Dr. White's remedies. As long as I can procure them, I intend never to be without them in my

Last Spring I came to this city with the lingering hope of obtaining relief from the Medical Faculty here, but, after the lapse of four or five months and at cost of two red dollars, with no better results than those FRESH lot of clocks received this day, at Portsmouth, and my physicians here, also and for sale by WM.
