She has gone, she has gone-a lily half-blown, And but yester the joy of the vale; She has gone, she has gone-a lily all crushed By the breath of the rude northern gale.

Like the blue of the sky, so fondly she loved, Was the blue of her meek joyous eye, And the ringlets so long that flowed on her neck With the gold of the sunbeams might vie.

Sweet, sweet as the carol of birds when they sing, Mid the dew of the morn on the hills The strains which she breathed from her soft warbling lute,

And which made us forget all our ills.

In deep sorrow has carelessly sighed. Our tears fastly fall as we stand on the green, Where the dead all so lowly are sleeping-The turf will soon blossom above her young head, But our sad hearts can ne'er stay their weep-

A PSALM OF THE NIGHT.

Fades from the West the farewell light, Flung backward by the setting sun, And silence deepens as the night Steals with its solema shadows on! Gathers the soft, refreshing dew,
On springing grass and flowret stems—
And lo! the everlasting blue
Is radiant with a thousand gems!

Ye visible spirits! bright as erst Young Eden's birthnight saw ye shine On all her flowers and fountains first, Yet sparkling from the hand divine; Yes; bright as then ye smiled, to catch The music of a sphere as fair, Ye hold your high, immortal watch,
And gird your God's pravillion there.

Source of all life, and joy, and light! Creator of each starry sphere, That o'er me on the arch of night Fleams like a diamond bright and Oh! as I gaze, transported now, Upon this blue resplendent dome, Deign but to hear my prayer, that thou Wilt call my erring spirit home.

Home, from the world's fast fading bowers, Frail visions and deluding dreams, To that fair clime of Eden flowers, Sweet airs and softly gliding streams: A sojourner and a stranger here, My soul must seek its homeward way Far, far beyond each starry sphere

I kneel before thy gorgeous throne, Upon thy footstool, King of kings! And gazing on the glories shown Beneath thy Holy Spirit's wings-Abject and weak, my awe struck heart Would from thy dazzling presence flee, If, Sayior, thou didst not impart Rays of undying hope to me.

As youder faint and glimmering star Receives its lustre from the sun, Though from its fiery splendors far, So from thy love, Almighty One, My spirit drinks immortal light-Oh, never may that light decay; But, like you diamond of the night, In heaven's own beauty melt away

Movement towards Camargo and Monterey. We have at last, received intelligence from the army on the Rio Grande, to the effect Delta of the 18th ult:

CAMP OPPOSITE MATAMOROS, July 6. 1846. Messes. Editors.—At length the Monoto-by of camp life is broken. We have received orders to strike tents, preparatory to moving forward towards Camargo. All is life and activity in camp to-day. We are life and activity in camp to-day. We are waiting for the steam boat Big Hatchee, which we momentarily expect to arrive, when we will embark on board of her and proceed fifteen miles above here, where we will be disembarked and wait until the whole of the Louisiana Brigade comes up, when we will be marched forward. The 7th Infantry, U. S. A. commanded by Capt. Miles, is embarking for the same destination. The steamboats Aid, Big Hatchee, and Troy are here; and the steamboats Cincinnati, Enterprise, Cora and J. E. Roberts, are in the river, coming up-this begins to look like moving, and I have now no doubt but that we will very soon be at Camargo.

We spent the "glorious 4th" most gloriously. The Brigade (Cols. Walton's and Mark's regiments) were paraded and reviewed by Generals Taylor and Smith. Gen. T. said that we would move forward to Monterey with the least possible delay; and that if we did not have another "crack" at the enemy, it would be because they out-traveled us, as he was determined to "go head," and he hoped and believed that we would not be detained any more.

Yours, truly

THE Crops .- The season so far has been unpropitious to the hopes of the cotton and sugar planter. It is said that the crops on the river plantations have scarcely ever been seen more backward than they now are at this period of the year. The cotton plant is sickly and puny beyond example, and in most of the front plantations the corn crop has been seriously injured. We understand, says the Pointe Coupee Tribune of the 20th inst., that the cotton on Bayou Grosse Tete and Fordoche is exceedingly large and promises well .- N. O. Courier.

the same tomb that contained her child. Abnera was at the plantation of De Blaique, who did every thing in his power to make the time pass pleasantly; resorted to many arts to ingratiate himself in her affections. He was to her most kind, and in her presence always modest. He tried all the wiles that a subtle mind could suggest by which to obtain her consent to their union; but she treated him with cold indifference, and avoided his many attentions. There, in the genial south, with its soft breezes and fragrant flowers; its bright sun and clear sky; surrounded by every luxury, she was yet sad and gloomy—these but illy comported with her feelings. She had seen the life of one of her dearest friends taken, and taken by her father. She had been torn away from one, whom to her was dearer than aught else upon earth. She was daily pressed to marry one whom she could The young flowers she planted and kissed into not endure in her presence. These settled a gloom upon her mind. Scenes of pleasure—the happiness f others, but tended to impress upon her how lonely and desolate she was. After spending two weeks in this dreary abode, she was relieved from it by their departure for New York. Cambreleng, in a state bordering on insanity, lingered behind. Loving with the fiery pathos that he loved—his very existence bound up in one creature-and to have that one snatched from him and allied to another, was indeed enough to, in some measure, destroy the healthy action of his mind. He could not endure such thought; and impelled by his uncontrollable feelings, he determined and followed on to New York, hoping some opportunity might be presented, and that he might yet save Abnera. How potent is love; this feeling which may be engendered in an hour-may shape and form the actions of a life. A frail woman may possess an induence unbounded over the greatest spirit or mightiest mind. An influence that does not arise from either physical or mental strength, but which originates with the feeling. Undoubtedly many of the brightest minds have been lost to earth, because of unrequitted and illy placed affection; and many a frown upon a loved face has determined the fate of individuals, and made the sun of their life set in misery and ruin. Had Mary Chaworth treated Byron differently, Byron had lived a different life, Do sing one of those old songs; one that will and his character might have been as remarkable for virtue and purity as it is for dissipa-

One evening after Cambreleng had arrived and happy past." linger o'er the unforgotten days of the bright in New York, he was sitting at the window of his room looking out upon the throng as they passed. There is much entertainment, to an observer, in noting a crowd. Specu lating upon the characters as they are presented; reading by the expression of the face the thoughts of the mind-the quality of the heart and disposition. He was not thinking of the crowd; he was brooding over his sad fate and lamenting over his bad fortune when when our joy had fruition. A song, which a carriage rolled by and he beheld Abnera, Mr. Alvanly and De Blaique. There was by sunny thoughts, which revelling in it, renthe same beautiful face that he had so often gazed enraptured upon. It was paler and bore a more melancholy expression than when he last saw it. O! what a thrill of delight shot athwart his breast at once more beholding her. They had been separated a month and not met since the fatal night upon which Carson fell. It had been the dreariest month of his life; and the extreme grief to which he had ben'a prey had altered his appearance very much. He could now closed to her, the day they were to be married linger about where she stayed, watch the and with the callousness of a parental tyrant, principal. movements of De Blaique, and he indulged the hope that he could elude the vigilance of her father. Several days passed, and every day and every night he resorted to the vicinity of the house where, from the window of a room he had taken, he could see, without exposing himself, all those going in and coming out of it. Four days were gone from the time he got the card, and he had not seen her. He become perplexed and troubled. She might be sick or they may have left. He called at the house and enquired of the ser. regard, (sufficiently for worldly purposes) vant if such persons were there, and to his astonishment was told that they had started home on account of the delicate and fast declining health of Miss Alvanly; and that she was to be married so soon as they arrived at home. These duties are arranged by the bill into eight classes, the articles being charged, respectively, with one hundred, for v, thirty. twenty-five, twenty, fifteen, ten, and five per cent. The chairman of the Committee on Finance says, that the average of these several rates of duties is twenty-three and a

The question, therefore, is whether we may justly expect such an importation this year as, at that average rate, will yield a revenue when concluded, leaves the mind tenanted of twenty eight millions of dollars. To judge of this, we may look at the amount of importations last year.

By the Treasury statement it appears that the value of merchandise imported from July 1. 1814 to June 30, 1845, was $117,254,564. This is a larger importation than the average of the last five years. But this amount includes all the free articles, the value of which is $22.157.840.

It is said that the free list will be diminished by this bill by transferring several of its articles to the taxed lists. But the main event was to transpire within two days. It articles still remain free. Tea, coffee, and specie are not to be taxed under this bill; and the value of these in last year's importation the anguish, the horror, of that young lady was $15,914.691. Now, this snm of $101,339.815, on an average duty of twenty-three and a half per cent, will produce $23,814,877, and no more.

But, this is gross product.

There is to be deducted, in the first place. for cost of collection, two millions. In the next place we are to deduct the drawbackrs at the same amount as last year, viz. $1,878,-407 55. After these deductions there re plied all else that constitutes love; that by a mains only the sum of $19,936,469 as the nett revenue from an importation as large as

> If we call this, for the sake of round numpers, twenty millions, then it follows that year the duties would fall short of the amount judged necessary for the uses of the Government by the sum of eight millions.

> To provide these eight millions, at the same rates of duties, there will be required an increased importation of forty millions of dollars making an aggregate of impertation of free and dutiable goods of $157,254,564. Now, is there any just ground of expec tation that any such increased importation will take place? Or, if it were possib'e that such an increase should accrue, can the goods be paid for without draining the country of specie, and effectually deranging the

Let it be remembered that to meet the importations of last year specie was exported beyond the import of the same articles to the amount of $4,536,273, viz: "Of specie" over imports of the same article $3,691,807; and exported American coin under the head of 'domestic products" $844,406: making together the sum of $4,536,273.

August Election.

On Monday next the election for members of was thought would create some excitement this career, by the high behests of a party, which adrummer, has not, we believe, been discussed to any great extent, or attracted any considerable attention on the part of the people. In this county there has been no party fight, notwithwhip into the traces a few independent Democrats who, in the absence of all party incentives, choose to think and act as they please.

In Boone and the counties composing the Sen atorial District of which Boone is a part, there than in any other portion of the State, and we are gratified to know that our Whig friends there, as is there wont when party lines are clearly drawn, are doing their duty faithfully and nobly. The Senatorial contest between Messrs. Hawkins and Brasher will be a close one but we entertain the strongest hopes of the election of the former. A better man, we are sure. could not be selected by the people of that District than Dr. Hawkins.

Where will it End?

When and where the Mexican War is to terminate, is now a question well deserving the calm consideration of the American people .-How long is the public treasury to be drained, commerce and the internal business relations of the country stagnated, and the feverish excitement consequent upon a state of war, to continue? Will there be no end to this waste of blood and treasure? Or are we, to gratify the ambitious views of reckless politicians, to suffer all the evils of war for years to come? No one can doubt that if Gen. Taylor had been furnished with the means of transportation by our gov ernment, he would have been able to have followed up the victories of the 8th and 9th of May by more heavy blows, more glorious victories and ere this, have "conquered a peace."

We are for prosecuting the war with vigor and energy, until the Mexicans are taught a lesson and thoroughly chastised for their insolence -We would vindicate the national honor, protect our neople from insult, and defend to the utmos every inch of American soil. To this extent, and this only, may the Mexican war be carried. And if this be the object of the Administration. we hope it may be speedily effected. But from all we can gather, from all the signs floating on the surface of public affairs, we are led to believe that it is the design of our rulers at Washington to make the present war one of Conquest, look ing forward to vast military operations, the dismemberment of the Mexican Republic, and the annexation to this country of the whole of the Northern Provinces of that unfortunate country We shall not here proceed to show the dangerous tendencies of such a scheme. When once commenced: when the love of conquest is once ex cited; when the thirst for vast possessions of territory once fully takes possession of a nation. the world cannot gratify it. That moment conquest, seeking to oxtend her territory over vast regions, populated by a variety of people, bound together by no common ties or interest her march to ruin is also commenced. She may live many years, as did Rome, after her dominion has extended to almost boundless realms, but the maw of the nation is insatiabel, the god. Terminus, still demands more territory, until the Republic is forced into the arms of a Central Despotism, or split into a thousand fragments upon the ruins of which a multitude of petty governments are reared. We trust a better fate awaits us. We trust that our rulers will reflect seriously and well consider the fearful responsibility that rests upon them, ere they adopt a policy, which must inevitably end in the over throw of this proud Republic-the noblest, the wisest government ever reared by the wisdom of

From the beginning of this discussion, it was seen that there was a power at work which would carhas been probably more party feeling excited ry the bill. That if it passed, it will be passed in defiance of the will of the vast majority of the people of the Union, is hardly to be controverted-that it is not such a bill as the majority of the Senate desire, is admitted -- and that the power of the President, controlled by men behind the scenes, secured its passage in the House, and is relied on to ensure its success in the Senate, needs no admission to strengthen the conviction of the people that it

Finding he had killed him, he cried "fire." the man in the Box office ran into the Theatre. Cook it is said seized what money he could, and filed. He has not been arrested; but certainly will be.

Rumors abound with regard to this murder.

The Tariff.

Mr. Niles in his speech against McKay's Tariff bill, took occasion to say: "If the bill was a Democratic measure, if it was founded upon Democratic principles, then the principles of that party were one thing in one section of the country and another in another section. It was founded upon principles entirely different from the Democracy of the North, and he believed it was calculated to injure the country and subvert the principles of the Democratic party."

A PROCLAMATION.

By the General Commanding the Army of the United States of America to the People of

After many years of patient endurance the United States are at length constrained to acknowledge that a war now exists between our Government and the Government of Mexico For many years our citizens have been subject ed to repeated insults and injuries, our vessel and cargoes have been seized and confiscated, our merchants have been plundered, maimed, imprisoned, without cause and without reparation At length your Government acknowledged the of our claims, and agreed by treaty to make satisfaction, by payment of several mil-lions of dollars; but this treaty has been violated by your rulers, and the stipulated payments have been withheld. Our late efforts to terminate all difficulties by peaceful negotiation, has been rejected by the Dictator Paredes, and our Minister of Peace, whom your rulers had agreed to receive, has been refused a hearing. He has been treated with indignity and insult, and Paredes has announced that war exists between us.—This war, thus first proclaimed by him, has been acknowledged as an existing fact by our President and Congress, with perfect unanimity, and will be prosecuted with vigor and energy against your army and rulers; but those of the Mexican people who remain neutral will not be molested Your Government is in the hands of tyrants and usurpers. They have abolished your State Governments, they have overthrown your Federal Constitution, they have deprived you of the right of suffrage, destroyed the liberty of the press, despoiled you of arms and reduced you to a state of absolute dependence upon the ower of a military dictator Your army and rulers extort from the people by grievous taxation, by forced loans and military seizures, the very money which sustains the Usurpers in power. Being disarmed, you were left defence-less, an easy prey to the savage Camanches, who not only destroy your lives and property, but drive into a captivity more horrible than death itself your wives and children. It is your and military rulers who have reduced you to this deplorable condition. It is these tyrants, and their corrnpt and cruel satelites, gorged with the people's treasure, by whom you are thus op-We come to obtain indemsity for the past, and security for the future; we come to overthrow the tyrants who have destroyed your liberties:they may choose to select for themselves.

It is our wish to see you liberated from des savage Camanches, prevent the renewal of their assaults, and to compel them to restore to you from captivity your lost wives and children. Your religion your altars and churches, the property of churches and citizens, the emblems of your faith and its ministers, shall be protected, and remain inviolate. Hundreds of our army, and hundreds of thousands of our people, are members o the Catholic Church. In every State, and in nearly every city and village of our Union, Cath olic Churches exist, and the priests perforn their holy functions in peace and security, under the sacred guarantee of our Constitution. We come among the people of Mexico as friends and republican brethren, and all who receive us as such shall be protected, whilst all who are seduced into the army of your dictator, shall be treated as enemies. We shall want from you othing but food for our army, and for this you shall always be paid in cash the full value. It is the settled policy of your tyrants to deceive you in regard to the policy and character of our Government and people. These tyrants fear the example of our free institutions, and constantly endeavor to misrepresent our purposes, and inspire you with hatred for our republican brethren of the American Union. Give us but the opportunity to undeceive you, and you will soon learn that all the representations of Paredes were false, and were only made to induce you to consent to the establishment of a despotic Govern

In your struggle for liberty with the Spanish monarchy, thousands of our countrymen risked with his throat dreadfully cut and his heart their lives and shed their blood in your defence pierced with several dagger wounds. The murtained in triumph your flag upon the ocean, and our Government was the first to acknowledge your independence. With pride and pleasure we enrolled your name on the list of independent republics, and sincerely desired that you might in peace and prosperity enjoy all the blessings of a free government. Success on the part of your tyrants against the army of the Union is impossible, but if they could succeed it would only be to enable them to fill your towns with their soldiers, eating out your substance, and harrassing you with still more grievous taxation. Already have they abolished the liberty of the press, as the first step towards that Monarchy which it is their real purpose to proclaim and establish.

Mexicans, we must treat as enemies and o verthrow the tyrants, who, whilst they have wronged and insulted us, have deprived you of your liberty, but the Mexican people who re-main neutral during the contest shall be protected against these military despots, by the Republican Army of the Union. To which the Lowell Courier replies-

"Let not James K. Polk be decived b such stuff as this. Let this policy of his be car-ried out, and if the hard-fisted reomanry of New England do not press him to their hearts till the very breath leaves his panting body, it be will because the iron-fisted workers of Pennsylvania and New York have previously taken him to their effectual embrace."

The Nashville Union (Locofoco) remarking upon the recent contradictory accounts relative to the dissolution of the Cabinet, says :- Balt.

"How the truth is we will not even undertake to guess-but perhaps as soon as as Mr. Ritchie gets through with skinning Mr. Brinkerhoff, he may give us light on the subject. We prefer, however that he will finish the job on hand, and do it well, before he quits."

Well the job is done-Mr. B. has not only been skinned, but his hide has been hung up to dry by the Washington Union. Will Mr. R. now enlighten his friend at Nashville about the Cabinet?

The Kennebec (Me.) Journal furnishes the following very useful article which we commend to the attention of some of our Locofoco friends in Kentucky. It will sit handsomely upon their "noses:"

The great O'Donnell's-In Cincinnati, at J. D Dough-Stickney was coming!! All the world was ty's, opposite the "Henrie Honse." Price 25 and emaciated form restored to sound and perbreathless with excitement: grave and reputable citizens went half crazy, and dreamed of nights about the "grand entry on four horses," and the veritable "picaninny John Smith" and his banjo. Politics, war and even religion were for the time laid on the shelf-their lustre dimmed, their glory paled before the expected advent of the illustrious Mr. Merryman, the motley clown. At length it came, and the living tide that pressed onward to the grand Circus pavillion showered the Eagle-halves into the Circus treasury by hundreds if not thousands; and the wide spread mouths and enthusiastic shouts of the grave and gay, white and black, old and young, paid homage to the great Stickney's grand entry and the irresistible Merryman. Look at the interest of the life? Ver Now the life? Ver Now the life? The Letter Envelopes, &c. &c. &c. that picture; is it true to the life? Yes. Now lock at this.

The Concert failed, although by a meeting of the citizens of Covington a committee was appointed to see that the volunteers were duly fed and clothed; and although to pay a debt incurred for that sacred purpose, they provided a musical entertainment, never surpassed in the west; yet the people staid at home, and the Concert failed. Is this right? Is it creditable to the city? It is certainly true.

CHERRY.

Read the following letter written to our Agent t Bowling Green, Ky, by a gentleman of high standing in that place: MR. JOSEPH I. YOUNGLOVE-Sir:

As a duly I owe to the community, and partilcularly to the afflicted, I would state that I had been for a number of years laboring under disease and weakness of the lungs, which caused me to cough a great deal, and produced a conseuent debility of my system generally, to such a degree, that it was with difficulty I could walk, to do which even for a short distance, I experirecommended to me, which I used without any beneficial effects whatever, until I procured a bottle of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. The use of one bottle afforded relief entirely relieving me of cough, & restoring my lungs to healthy action. The use of it for a short time increased my general health and strength to such an extent, that I was stronger and more healthy than I had been for years before. From the trial I have made of the medicine, I can confidently recommend it as a powerful Tonic, a certain cure for affections of the lungs, unless it may be in cases of Consumption, obstinate and of long

JAMES A. LEWIS. Bowling Green, Ky. March 7, 1846. ANOTHER INVALID RESTORED TO HEALTH.

Read the following statement of facts from Mr. E. Bailey, a highly respectable merchant of Vienna, Johnson county, Illinois.] Messrs, Phelps & Blaklsley, St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen :-- A desire to benefit the afflicted through out the land has alone induced me to make the following statement of facts respecting one of the most astonishing cures ever recorded. my son, now seventeen years old, has been afflicted during his whole life with a constant cough, pain in the side and chest, accompanied with night sweats and hectic fever, which produced great emaciation and debility; and at intervals during the night his expectoration would become so great as to endanger his life from strangula. tion .- During this time he was aftended by many physicians of the highest repute, whose prescriptions gave but temporary relief-in fact, so alarming were the symptoms, and so inveterate was his disease, that $\, {f I} \,$ was compelled to believe him beyond the reach of medical aid. All our neighbors and friends who saw him, regarded him as one who was rapidly approaching an early and premature grave. After having thus exhausted the skill of our best physicians, without obtaining relief, I was prevailed upon by the advice of a friend to make use of Wistur's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

He commenced its use about the 30th of December 1844, the first bottle of which gave astonishing relief, and I began again to include in the fond hope that he might yet be restored to After having continued the use of it until three bottles had been taken, the disease was entirely overcome and his shaftered constitution manent health, which he contin ues to enjoy up to the present time

I believe the genuine Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry to be one of the most valuable medicines ever discovered --- knowing, as I do, that

Commercial Institute. GUNDRY & BACON'S

COMMERCIAL INSTITUTE, N. E. Corner of Vine and Fifth sts., Cincinnati, O. The design of this Institution is to qualify young men in a thorough practical manner, for the Counting Honse. The Course will embrace Book-keeping by Double Entry, Commercial Calculations, Commercial Letter, Writing and Practical Penmanship.

BOOKKEEPING BY DOUBLE ENTRY A complete course of practical Instruction will be given in this Science, embracing every Department of Trade and Mercantile accounts, viz: Wholesale, Retail, Commission, Exchange, Shipping, Banking, Individual, Partnership and Compound Company Business.

The subject of Closing and Re-opening Books,

Balancing and Adjusting Individual and Partnership concerns, will be explained and illustra-

(ed. In place of the common method of copying In place of the common method of copying after any particular printed work, the pupil is exercised in opening, making the Original Entries, Journalizing, Posting, Balancing, Closing and making out the Balance Sheets of over twenty different sets of Books, containing En-tries in every variety of Mercantile Transac ions—thus obtaining in a short time a more ex tensive knowledge of the science than could b equired for years in a Counting House.

COMMERCIAL CALCULATIONS. Which will be taught according to the most nproved methods used by Merchants and Brokers in the valuations and allowances of Merchandise, Calculations of per centage, Interest, Commission, Exchange, Equation of Payments, COMMERCIAL LETTER-WRITING. Embracing the general particulars of Letter Writing as connected with the different branches of Trade, in concluding the general forms of Invoice, Accounts, Sales, Bills of Exchange, &c.

PRACTICAL PENMANSHIP, Taught in all its variations. In completing the above course, the principals will obligate themselves to make every pupil a good practical enman. A good hand writing is not only one of the greatest accomplishments, but it is also indispensibly necessary to the business man as well as the accountant. An individual however good in accounts, if deficient in writing cannot be considered properly qualified to take charge of a set of books.

It should then, be an important consideration with every young man in entering an Institution to acquire a knowledge of Pookkeeping, to go where he can also, at the same time be made a good writer, and thus obtain all, rather than a art of these qualifications which are equally ssential to the Bookkeeper. Reference can be shown from some of the first Business men and Bookkeepers in the city, who ave qualified themselves at this Institution. 31-1y Feb. 21, 1846.
