SPECULATION IN WHISKERS;

Or, Shaving in a Broker's Shop.

BY SOL SMITH.

There lived in Milledgeville in 1832, a dandified individual whom we will call

Jenks. This individual had a tolerably favorable opinion of his personal appearance. His fingers were hooped with rings, and his shirt bosom was decked with a magnificent breast pin; coat, hat, vest and boots were made exactly to fit; he wore kid gloves of remarkable whiteness; his

Fourth of July Poem.
We give below a strong and sculpture-like poem on this anniversary of deepening interest, written by Mr. J. B. CLARK, and pronounced at Rochester, at the late celebration. It is of the old school of poetry, and will read refreshingly after the polkas and mazurkas of the present fashionable times.

Why on this day o'er half the western world,
Is Freedom's flag of Stars and Stripes unfurled?
Why on this morn, from the Atlantic shore
To that far coast where western surges roar,
From where the morning sun spreads radiant cheer
O'er all New England's hills of living green,
To where his evening robe of silver gleams
On Oregon's and California's streams,
From where Niagara's earthquake-shakes the land,
To where the Mexican gulf leaves Texas strand—
Beamed forth a nation's glad, exultant voice,
In cannon's thunder, bidding earth rejoice!

Why from each spire, and notes of festive bells,
Why on each breeze rolled merrily's martial yell?
It is the day that gave our country birth,
And saw the proud realms of the earth,
A promiser through an infant realm arise,
And lift its victor banner to the skies,
And find to heaven from Freedom's mountain height.

Its broad, bright folds all glowing with the light
Of Freedom's sun, ere yet his dawning ray
Upon the valley had brightened into day—
And stand, like new-born pillars, armed complete
To guard with valor's hand her glorious shrine,
And bear it on with valor's fearless train,
Until Oppression's flag should trail its folds in height.

Is the day when our young country sprang
To vindicate her cause; and wars of blood
And core-strewn fields and devastating rage,
The conflict for the Rights or No to wage?
When fear, yet fearless, our great father's rose
To smile to earth her laurel wreath of peace,
And give their rescued land a nation's name,
And on the adamant shaft of fate,
To grave their own, and the deathless throng
And live in history's lore and Poesy's song.

Have hither come to find the glorious sires,
And bear it on with valor's fearless train,
Until Oppression's flag should trail its folds in height.

And give their rescued land a nation's name,
And on the adamant shaft of fate,
To grave their own, and the deathless throng
And live in history's lore and Poesy's song.

Have hither come to find the glorious sires,
And bear it on with valor's fearless train,
Until Oppression's flag should trail its folds in
height.

Is the day when our young country sprang
To vindicate her cause; and wars of blood
And core-strewn fields and devastating rage,
The conflict for the Rights or No to wage?
When fear, yet fearless, our great father's rose
To smile to earth her laurel wreath of peace,
And give their rescued land a nation's name,
And on the adamant shaft of fate,
To grave their own, and the deathless throng
And live in history's lore and Poesy's song.

Why on this day o'er half the western world,
Is Freedom's flag of Stars and Stripes unfurled?
Why on this morn, from the Atlantic shore
To that far coast where western surges roar,
From where the morning sun spreads radiant cheer
O'er all New England's hills of living green,
To where his evening robe of silver gleams
On Oregon's and California's streams,
From where Niagara's earthquake-shakes the land,
To where the Mexican gulf leaves Texas strand—
Beamed forth a nation's glad, exultant voice,
In cannon's thunder, bidding earth rejoice!

Why from each spire, and notes of festive bells,
Why on each breeze rolled merrily's martial yell?
It is the day that gave our country birth,
And saw the proud realms of the earth,
A promiser through an infant realm arise,
And lift its victor banner to the skies,
And find to heaven from Freedom's mountain height.

Is the day when our young country sprang

GREEN'S PATENT COOKING STOVE
Manufactured and sold only by Wm. E. CHILDS, No. 21, Fifth Street, South side, between Main and Walnut, sign of the Gilt Star.

"We, the undersigned, have used most if not all the popular Cooking Stoves, and now have in use Green's Patent, which we by far give a decided preference. In point of convenience, dispatch in cooking, heat of plates and economy of fuel. In having, we believe, no other stove to all who may wish to purchase, as we believe it fair superior to any now in use."

100 LOTS FOR SALE.
Great Bargains in Covington.

THE SUBSCRIBERS, associated for the purpose of buying and selling Real Estate, offer their friends and the public their services. They have for sale, on their own account, and that of others, about one hundred lots, in and near the city of Covington. These lots are variously situated, and of the principal streets on Madison, Scott, Lynd, Robins and Eleventh streets, the lots are well situated for family residences. At the foot of Ninth, Tenth, Robins, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, immediately on the bank of Licking river, and adjoining Bates and Jordan's rolling-mills, on either side, and about one mile from the public wharf in Cincinnati, we will sell from one to three acres at the foot of each said streets, to any person wishing to engage in the manufacturing business, on very accommodating terms. Call and see this ground before purchasing, as it is well located for the above purpose.
